

Expect Turkey To Enter War; May Assist In Allied Invasion

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER and WILLIAM FRYE

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—Deeds, rather than words, are expected by informed observers here to bring out the full significance of Turkey's newly defined role as an associate of the Allies fighting Germany.

The impression gained from the latest Cairo communique is strong that this role is to be one of great importance. At the strategic moment when her help will count most, Turkey very probably will enter the war.

Whether that moment is close at hand or in the indefinite future is a question that can be answered only by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, President Ismet Inonu of Turkey or their ranking advisers and Russian associates. Like many another question decided at the historic series of middle eastern conferences the world may learn the answer only when it is expressed in action.

Voice for Future
That her destiny eventually will lead Turkey into military partnership with the Allies is regarded as probable for two reasons—her strategic position in relation to the Balkans and her desire for a full voice in the peace councils.

The machinery for action is present in the Anglo-Turkish alliance, and the significance of the Cairo meeting, announced last night, may lie in the reaffirmation of this alliance by the Turkish government not only to the British but to the Americans and Russians as well.

Broadly speaking there are three main avenues of military approach to Germany: (1) across the English channel and through Belgium and northern France; (2) across the Adriatic and through northern Yugoslavia; (3) through the Aegean sea and the Balkans.

Key to Aegean
Only in the Aegean area have the Allies had little hope of successful attack without the cooperation of still another country. For with the Germans entrenched in Greece and in the Aegean islands, Turkey holds the key to a drive in this area.

Airfields on the western rim of Turkey would outflank and make possible the quick conquest of such islands as would have to be taken if a thrust into the Balkans were planned. Turkey itself, in fact, is a bridge from Asia to southeastern Europe, and the European section of the country, across the Dardanelles, Sea of Marmara and Bosphorus, is a ready-made bridgehead in the Balkans.

Turkey's role in the events to come may be active, with her army participating in a Balkan offensive, or passive, limited to cession of air bases to the Allies and opening Turkish ports to Allied troops.

Active Turkish participation would add an excellent army of perhaps 30 divisions to Allied strength. It is, however, an army weak in aircraft, in anti-aircraft and other modern guns, and in motorized equipment.

Soldier Is Home From South Pacific
Clifford Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chapman, Orlanna R. D., is on furlough from the South Pacific, where he has been serving with the Army.

This is Chapman's first furlough home in four years. He enlisted in 1939 and has been in the South Pacific theatre of war since last December.

HOME ON FURLOUGH
Corporal Theodore C. Keefer, Troop C, 104th Cavalry, Salem, Oregon, arrived home Tuesday on a fifteen day furlough. He has been in service three years enlistment in the Governor's Troop. He is the son of Mrs. George Kadwill, Buford avenue.

Special Plane Carried FDR To Big Three Meet
Cairo, Dec. 8 (AP)—An American Air Transport Service set up especially for the conferences at Cairo and Teheran used 15 four-engine planes. These hauled a total of 250 persons and 15 tons of supplies on routes over five continents—the Americas, Europe, Asia, Africa—and probably also Australia.

Some planes, including that of President Roosevelt, carried full sleeping and cooking facilities. President Roosevelt used the specially-equipped plane he had at the Casablanca conference last January when he flew in a flying boat part way. He had the same military crew.

HISTORIANS ARE GIVEN STORY OF M'PHERSON CLAN

The history of Adams county, as it related to the McPherson family from the time of the arrival here of the first members of the family, Robert and Janet McPherson, who settled along Marsh creek in 1738, was outlined Tuesday evening at the December meeting of the Adams County Historical society.

Donald P. McPherson, Jr., Esq., lineal descendant of the original McPherson in the county, spoke of the life of his ancestors, whose collection of documents have become known as the McPherson papers, and then discussed the papers themselves, all of which are now in the Library of Congress.

Robert McPherson died a year after moving to what is now Adams county. His son, Col. Robert McPherson, served in the Revolutionary army, was an auditor for York county in 1755 and 1767, a county commissioner in 1756 and sheriff in 1762. He served as an assemblyman from 1765 to 1767 and again from 1781 to 1783. He was a member of the constitutional convention which in July, 1776 drew up the first constitution for the free commonwealth of Pennsylvania. He was also a charter trustee for Dickinson college.

Trace Family History
Col. McPherson's son, Lt. William McPherson, born in 1737 was captured in the battle of Long Island and was a prisoner of the British for two years. He represented York county in the legislature for nine years and played an active part in securing the legislation that created Adams county from what was then York county. He died in 1852.

Lieut. McPherson's son, John B. McPherson was born November 13, 1789, and died in 1858. He was born on the farm which Robert McPherson had settled in 1738. He spent the early part of his life with his grandfather Carrick, near Emmitsburg, for whom Carrick's Knob, near Mt. St. Mary's college, is named. In early manhood he returned to Gettysburg and was named first cashier of the Gettysburg National bank upon its organization in 1814, where he remained for 44 years. He was interested in Gettysburg college and was president of the board of trustees at the time of his death.

Edward McPherson
John B. McPherson's son, Edward McPherson, was born July 31, 1830, and died December 14, 1895. He was an active newspaperman in his early years, founding a newspaper at Lancaster. He was elected to Congress in 1858 and re-elected in 1860 from the district comprising Adams, Franklin, Fulton, Bedford and Juniata counties. During the summer and fall of 1864 he served as a volunteer aide on the staff of General McCall who headed the Pennsylvania Reserves. From 1863 to 1875, Edward McPherson was clerk of the House of Representatives and in 1876 he was president of the Republican National convention. He was executor of the estate of Thaddeus Stevens and much of the "McPherson Papers" are comprised of papers secured during the settlement of Stevens' estate.

Here And There News Collected At Random

NO. 1 PUBLISHER
Uncle Sam is the number one publisher of the nation declared Congressman Marlon T. Bennett, of Missouri, in a recent address in the House of Representatives.

Congressman Bennett declared that Uncle Sam publishes so many periodicals from dailies to annuals that even Augustus E. Giegengack, the public printer, does not know how many. Giegengack recently testified before a subcommittee investigating the newspaper shortage and declared that "he has been trying in vain for years" to ascertain how many publications are published by federal agencies.

Congressman Bennett prepared the only known "partial" list of government periodicals in which he revealed that 441 publications are now on the market, sponsored by Uncle Sam and "paid for with taxpayers' money."

He declared that there are: Daily, 9; every other day, 1; weekly, 48; bi-weekly, 12; monthly, 241; bi-monthly, 8; quarterly, 33; semi-annual, 3; annual, 20; irregularly or seasonally, 63, and three times a year, 1.

Mr. Giegengack, who, according to law, is supposed to pass on all printing undertaken by any federal agency, admitted that he did not know how many publications were published by the U. S. but he did know that during the last fiscal year government agencies used 161,611 tons or 40 per cent more paper than they had consumed in the previous fiscal year.

"At the same time," said Congressman Bennett, "private publishers have suffered a 15 per cent cut in paper supply, are now faced with a 23 per cent cut and the nation is engaged in another scrap paper salvage campaign."

"Our government is such a big one," said Mr. Bennett, "with some 2,241 subdivisions today, that one Congressman cannot be (Please Turn to Page 2)

FIREMEN SAVE DOCTOR'S HOME

York Springs firemen saved the residence of Dr. and Mrs. William Flickinger, York Springs, when they checked an early morning blaze today there after it had spread from flooring about a fireplace into first floor partitions and caused damage estimated at about $300.

The fire was discovered about 1:30 o'clock by Mrs. Flickinger when she rose to get milk for her three-year-old son, Freddie. Discovering the smoke, Mrs. Flickinger carried her son and a younger daughter to safety. She asked the night operator, Miss Esther LaRue, to call firemen and neighbors saying, "I think our house is on fire."

The operator called the C. F. Brinkerhoff residence next door and Mrs. Brinkerhoff and her granddaughter, Emma, took the Flickinger children to their home while firemen and other neighbors carried furniture out of the physician's residence. The blaze was brought under control with some difficulty. Mrs. Flickinger had been using the fireplace during the evening to "help save our fuel oil supply." Doctor Flickinger was not at home when the fire was discovered.

Lt. Harvey Dickert At 4-Engine School

Second Lieutenant Harvey W. Dickert is now a student in the four-engine pilot school at Boswell Army Air Forces Training Command station, Boswell, New Mexico. He received his pilot wings recently at Yuma, Arizona.

The lieutenant is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Dickert, 70 East Stevens street, Gettysburg. He attended Gettysburg high school and before joining the Army in July, 1944, was employed with William S. Lozier, Inc., Rochester, New York.

CHRISTIAN FAITH MUST MARCH IN FUTURE: PUTMAN

The Christian faith must march with the transition of our social, economic and political life if it is to fulfill its purpose and if it is not to be displaced by other and more dynamic faiths, Dr. Dwight F. Putman, pastor of Christ Lutheran church, told the students and faculty of the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary at the annual matriculation service in the Church of the Abiding Presence this morning.

Twenty-nine new students at the seminary were "received into the spirit of the seminary" at the matriculation service which included the matriculation, conducted by the president of the institution, Dr. Abdel R. Wentz; confessional service, the address on "A Marching Faith" by the Rev. Dr. Putman, holy communion and benediction. Included among the students who declared their intention to serve the ministry and the church was one woman, Mrs. Miriam Elisabeth Swank, Philadelphia.

"If We Are Afraid"
"Civilization is on the march," Dr. Putman asserted, "and Faith also must march. Faith has at times forgotten its marching orders. After the last war, France, Britain and the United States emerged as a burned out people without faith. Faith seemed all dressed up but with no intention to go any place."

"Man cannot live in a spiritual vacuum for any great length of time. The surging forces of life create a faith if the one it had is dead and does not meet its needs. Nazism and communism are faiths. Both are symptomatic of a Christian faith that had died. Communism and Fascism became competitors of the Christian church with men dying for them as once they died for Christ. If we do not fulfill our work as Christian ministers, if we are afraid to make our faith a surging vital thing, if we wish only to be secure, then the first World War, the present World War and the next World War will go down in history as a rear guard battle to save our present civilization."

"We have a commission to put thoughts and aims into the hearts of man. When man can solve his problems only by resort to force, then the Christian ministry has failed."

List of Students

Allies Sweep Three Towns From Germans

By NOLAND NORGAARD

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Dec. 8 (AP)—The Allied Fifth Army has captured the summit of lofty Mt. Camino, routed the Nazis from three villages southwest of Mignano, and recaptured rain-and-blood-soaked Monastery Ridge in bitter fighting to win heights overlooking the road to Cassino and Rome, it was announced today.

Official reports from Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark's headquarters said the enemy had been shoved back to the fringe of ridges on the northern and western edges of Mt. Camino and Mt. Maggiore by the steady, savage thrusts of American and British troops.

Crush Counterattacks

The Fifth Army's hammer blows through the deep, powerful German winter line toward Cassino were accompanied by fresh gains on the Eighth Army's Adriatic coastal sector.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces crushed repeated Nazi counterattacks, and reported limited advances in the area of the Moro river, where both British tanks and infantry had crossed the stream.

Evidence of severe German casualties in defense of this coastal sector came with discovery that Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring had thrown the 90th Armored Grenadier division into line there to relieve the 65th Infantry division. The 65th was so badly smashed that one of its battalions lost all its officers, emerging with only a sergeant-major left to command.

COUNTY PSEA UNIT HEARS 2 STATE LEADERS

Adams county's teachers today were studying the problem of sick leaves with the hope that their findings would present some method of providing for absences which could be presented to the county school boards for action in the near future.

The problem of sick leaves was discussed Tuesday evening at a meeting of the county Pennsylvania State Education Association unit at the court house with President Anson M. Hamm naming a committee including Clyde A. McCauslin, Franklin township, chairman; H. Dean Stover, Littlestown; Grantas E. Hoopert, York Springs; George B. Inskip, Biglerville, and William S. Whiteley, Arendtsville, to study the problem and to report back by the middle of the month.

Purpose of Tenure
Dr. Harvey Gaman, executive secretary of the PSEA, and A. C. Moser of the State PSEA office, were the principal speakers at the session. Dr. Gaman, speaking on how the local organizations fit into the State and National educational organization, told the teachers that tenure can be made more effective only by better teaching. The purpose of the tenure act is not to protect poor teachers, he asserted, "any organization or law is bound to fail when it is designed to keep down the level of the workers. What tenure guarantees is that a teacher who produces will not be fired because of personal or other (Please Turn to Page 5)

Expect Turkey To Enter War; May Assist In Allied Invasion

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER and WILLIAM FRYE
Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—Deeds, rather than words, are expected by informed observers here to bring out the full significance of Turkey's newly defined role as an associate of the Allies fighting Germany.

The impression gained from the latest Cairo communique is strong that this role is to be one of great importance. At the strategic moment when her help will count most, Turkey very probably will enter the war.

Whether that moment is close at hand or in the indefinite future is a question that can be answered only by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, President Ismet Inonu of Turkey or their ranking advisers and Russian associates.

Like many another question decided at the historic series of middle eastern conferences the world may learn the answer only when it is expressed in action.

Voice for Future
That her destiny eventually will lead Turkey into military partnership with the Allies is regarded as probable for two reasons—her strategic position in relation to the Balkans and her desire for a full voice in the peace councils.

The machinery for action is present in the Anglo-Turkish alliance, and the significance of the Cairo meeting, announced last night, may lie in the reaffirmation of this alliance by the Turkish government not only to the British but to the Americans and Russians as well.

Broadly speaking there are three main avenues of military approach to Germany: (1) across the English channel and through Belgium and northern France; (2) across the Adriatic and through northern Yugoslavia; (3) through the Aegean sea and the Balkans.

Key to Aegean
Only in the Aegean area have the Allies had little hope of successful attack without the cooperation of still another country. For with the Germans entrenched in Greece and in the Aegean islands, Turkey holds the key to a drive in this area.

Airfields on the western rim of Turkey would outflank and make possible the quick conquest of such islands as would have to be taken if a thrust into the Balkans were planned. Turkey itself, in fact, is a bridge from Asia to southeastern Europe, and the European section of the country, across the Dardanelles, Sea of Marmara and Bosphorus, is a ready-made bridgehead in the Balkans.

Turkey's role in the events to come may be active, with her army participating in a Balkan offensive, or passive, limited to cession of air bases to the Allies and opening Turkish ports to Allied troops.

Active Turkish participation would add an excellent army of perhaps 30 divisions to Allied strength. It is, however, an army weak in aircraft, in anti-aircraft and other modern guns, and in motorized equipment.

Cairo, Dec. 8 (AP) — An American Air Transport Service set up especially for the conferences at Cairo and Tehran used 15 four-engined planes. These hauled a total of 250 persons and 15 tons of supplies on routes over five continents—the Americas, Europe, Asia, Africa—and probably also Australia.

Some planes, including that of President Roosevelt, carried full sleeping and cooking facilities.

President Roosevelt used the specially-equipped plane he had at the Casablanca conference last January when he flew in a flying boat part way. He had the same military crew.

HISTORIANS ARE GIVEN STORY OF M'PHERSON CLAN

The history of Adams county, as it related to the McPherson family from the time of the arrival here of the first members of the family, Robert and Janet McPherson, who settled along Marsh creek in 1738, was outlined Tuesday evening at the December meeting of the Adams County Historical society.

Donald P. McPherson, Jr., Esq., lineal descendant of the original McPherson in the county, spoke of the life of his ancestors, whose collection of documents have become known as the McPherson papers, and then discussed the papers themselves, all of which are now in the Library of Congress.

Robert McPherson died a year after moving to what is now Adams county. His son, Col. Robert McPherson, served in the Revolutionary army, was an auditor for York county in 1755 and 1767, a county commissioner in 1756 and sheriff in 1762. He served as an assemblyman from 1765 to 1767 and again from 1781 to 1783. He was a member of the constitutional convention which in July, 1776 drew up the first constitution for the free commonwealth of Pennsylvania. He was also a charter trustee for Dickinson college.

Trace Family History
Col. McPherson's son, Lt. William McPherson, born in 1757 was captured in the battle of Long Island and was a prisoner of the British for two years. He represented York county in the legislature for nine years and played an active part in securing the legislation that created Adams county from what was then York county. He died in 1852.

Lieut. McPherson's son, John B. McPherson was born November 15, 1789, and died in 1858. He was born on the farm which Robert McPherson had settled in 1738. He spent the early part of his life with his grandfather Carrick, near Emmitsburg, for whom Carrick's Knob, near Mt. St. Mary's college, is named. In early manhood he returned to Gettysburg and was named first cashier of the Gettysburg National bank upon its organization in 1814, where he remained for 44 years. He was interested in Gettysburg college and was president of the board of trustees at the time of his death.

Edward McPherson
John B. McPherson's son, Edward McPherson, was born July 31, 1830, and died December 14, 1895. He was an active newspaperman in his early years, founding a newspaper at Lancaster. He was elected to Congress in 1858 and re-elected in 1860 from the district comprising Adams, Franklin, Fulton, Bedford and Juniata counties. During the summer and fall of 1864 he served as a volunteer aide on the staff of General McCull who headed the Pennsylvania Reserves. From 1863 to 1875, Edward McPherson was clerk of the House of Representatives and in 1876 he was president of the Republican National convention. He was executor of the estate of Thaddeus Stevens and much of the "McPherson Papers" are comprised of papers secured during the settlement of Stevens' estate.

Here And There News Collected At Random

NO. 1 PUBLISHER
Uncle Sam is the number one publisher of the nation declared Congressman Marion T. Bennett, of Missouri, in a recent address in the House of Representatives.

Congressman Bennett declared that Uncle Sam publishes so many periodicals from dailies to annuals that even Augustus E. Giegengack, the public printer, does not know how many Giegengack recently testified before a subcommittee investigating the newspaper shortage and declared that "he has been trying in vain for years" to ascertain how many publications are published by federal agencies.

Congressman Bennett prepared the only known "partial" list of government periodicals in which he revealed that 441 publications are now on the market, sponsored by Uncle Sam and "paid for with taxpayers' money."

He declared that there are: Daily, 9; every other day, 1; weekly, 48; biweekly, 12; monthly, 34; bi-monthly, 8; quarterly, 23; semi-annual, 3; annual, 20; irregularly or seasonally, 63, and three times a year, 1.

Mr. Giegengack, who, according to law, is supposed to pass on all printing undertaken by any federal agency, admitted that he did not know how many publications were published by the U. S. but he did know that during the last fiscal year government agencies used 161,611 tons or 40 per cent more paper than they had consumed in the previous fiscal year.

"At the same time," said Congressman Bennett, "private publishers have suffered a 15 per cent cut in paper supply, are now faced with a 23 per cent cut and the nation is engaged in another scrap paper salvage campaign."

"Our government is such a big one," said Mr. Bennett, "with some 2,241 subdivisions today, that one Congressman cannot be (Please Turn to Page 2)

FIREMEN SAVE DOCTOR'S HOME

York Springs firemen saved the residence of Dr. and Mrs. William Pickling, York Springs, when they checked an early morning blaze today there after it had spread from flooring about a fireplace into first floor partitions and caused damage estimated at about $300.

The fire was discovered about 1:30 o'clock by Mrs. Pickling when she rose to get milk for her three-year-old son, Freddie. Discovering the smoke, Mrs. Pickling carried her son and a younger daughter to safety. She asked the night operator, Miss Esther LaRue, to call firemen and neighbors saying, "I think our house is on fire."

The operator called the C. F. Brinkerhoff residence next door and Mrs. Brinkerhoff and her granddaughter, Emma, took the little Pickling children to their home while firemen and other neighbors carried furniture out of the physician's residence. The blaze was brought under control with some difficulty.

Mrs. Pickling had been using the fireplace during the evening to "help save our fuel oil supply."

Doctor Pickling was not at home when the fire was discovered.

CHRISTIAN FAITH MUST MARCH IN FUTURE: PUTMAN

The Christian faith must march with the transition of our social, economic and political life if it is to fulfill its purpose and if it is not to be displaced by other and more dynamic faiths, Dr. Dwight F. Putman, pastor of Christ Lutheran church, told the students and faculty of the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary at the annual matriculation service in the Church of the Abiding Presence this morning.

Twenty-nine new students at the seminary were "received into the spirit of the seminary" at the matriculation service which included the matriculation, conducted by the president of the institution, Dr. Abdel R. Wentz; confessional service, the address on "A Marching Faith" by the Rev. Dr. Putman, holy communion and benediction. Included among the students who declared their intention to serve the ministry and the church was one woman, Mrs. Miriam Elisabeth Swank, Philadelphia.

"If We Are Afraid"
"Civilization is on the march," Dr. Putman asserted, "and Faith also must march. Faith has at times forgotten its marching orders. After the last war, France, Britain and the United States emerged as a burned out people without faith. Faith seemed all dressed up but with no intention to go any place."

"Man cannot live in a spiritual vacuum for any great length of time. The surging forces of life create a faith if the one it had is dead and does not meet its needs. Nazism and communism are faiths. Both are symptomatic of a Christian faith that had died. Communism and Fascism became competitors of the Christian church with men dying for them as once they died for Christ. If we do not fulfill our work as Christian ministers, if we are afraid to make our faith a surging vital thing, if we wish only to be secure, then the first World War, the present World War and the next World War will go down in history as a rear guard battle to save our present civilization."

"We have a commission to put thoughts and aims into the hearts of men. When man can solve his problems only by resort to force, then the Christian ministry has failed."

List of Students

Allies Sweep Three Towns From Germans

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Dec. 8 (AP)—The Allied Fifth Army has captured the summit of lofty Mt. Camino, routed the Nazis from three villages southwest of Mignano, and recaptured rain-and-blood-soaked Monastery Ridge in bitter fighting to win heights overlooking the road to Cassino and Rome, it was announced today.

Official reports from Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark's headquarters said the enemy had been shoved back to the fringe of ridges on the northern and western edges of Mt. Camino and Mt. Maggiore by the steady, savage thrusts of American and British troops.

Crush Counterattacks
The Fifth Army's hammer blows through the deep, powerful German winter line toward Cassino were accompanied by fresh gains on the Eighth Army's Adriatic coastal sector.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces crushed repeated Nazi counterattacks, and reported limited advances in the area of the Moro river, where both British tanks and infantry had crossed the stream.

Evidence of severe German casualties in defense of this coastal sector came with discovery that Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring had thrown the 90th Armored Grenadier division into line there to relieve the 65th Infantry division. The 65th was so badly smashed that one of its battalions lost all its officers, emerging with only a sergeant-major left to command

• Allied medium bombers carried out attacks on Civitavecchia, northwest of Rome, and the important Adriatic port of Pescara. Six enemy planes were shot down in yesterday's operations without loss to the Allies.

COUNTY PSEA UNIT HEARS 2 STATE LEADERS

Adams county's teachers today were studying the problem of sick leaves with the hope that their findings would present some method of providing for absences which could be presented to the county school boards for action in the near future.

Dr. Gaman, speaking on how the local organizations fit into the State and National educational organization, told the teachers that tenure can be made more effective only by better teaching."

The purpose of the tenure act is not to protect poor teachers," he asserted, "any organization or law is bound to fail when it is designed to keep down the level of the workers. What tenure guarantees is that a teacher who produces will not be fired because of personal or other (Please Turn to Page 5)

TURK PARLEY BIG VICTORY FOR THE ALLIES

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

The winning of ultra-conservative Turkey into "closest unity" and complete "identity of interest" with America, Britain and Russia, represents one of the major bloodless victories of the war, for there are few places of greater strategic importance than the territory and waters under Turkish control.

There's a double significance in this event, which was the outcome of a meeting between Turkey's President Ismet Inonu and Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill in Cairo. Apart from the moral and perhaps material strength acquired by the Allies, this agreement seems to me to mean that there must have been an ironing-out of long-standing and dangerous suspicions between Ankara and Moscow. This thought is strengthened by the fact that while Marshal Stalin himself could not be present, he joined in inviting Inonu to the parley, and thus gave the session his official blessing.

Control Dardanelles

Looking at the thing from all angles, I should say that the hand-shaking between the Muscovites and the Turks is a matter of greater moment even than the further cementing of the Anglo-American and Turkish friendship. That's so because the hard-eyed way the Russians and the Turks have watched each other play their cards has made other nations uneasy.

The point has been, of course, that the Turks control the Dardanelles—the famous strait which provides the only gateway the Russians have between the Black sea and outside waters.

Naturally Moscow has wanted to ensure her perpetual use of this waterway, which is more priceless than as though filled with molten rubies. Great wars have grown out of far less than that.

Ready to Help

So it's good to see the Turks and Muscovites smiling at each other. The pot of gold at the end of that rainbow will be a friendly adjustment of the status of the Dardanelles.

Does this Turko-Allied agreement mean that the Ottomans are going to join us in the war? Hard and fast conclusions on that question must be risky. I think the position is about like this:

The Turks appear to have given their outright allegiance to the United Nations. The indications are that Ankara is prepared to get into the war with both feet, if the Allies really need this additional military aid. Such a situation might arise from the projected all-out offensive against Hitler, and a call from the Allies likely would set the Turkish armies marching.

Medical Society Hears Capt. Kwedar

Capt. Albert T. Kwedar, medical officer at the 55th College Detachment (Aircrew), Gettysburg college, spoke on "A Typical Pneumonia," at the December meeting of the Adams County Medical society Tuesday evening in the board room at the Warner hospital.

Capt. Kwedar told of his experience with that type of pneumonia while in the Army. He stated the mortality rate is very low although a patient becomes very ill. After two weeks of headaches, chills, fever, slow pulse and marked prostration a convalescent period of from four to six weeks is required and the Army usually issues furloughs for that length of time. The cause of this type of pneumonia is unknown and it is often difficult to differentiate with tuberculosis in its early stages, said the speaker.

Dr. D. B. Coover, Littlestown, president of the society, presided at the meeting with 12 members and three guests present. Routine business was transacted.

Collectors will be given an allowable, or working inventory, of points equal to twice the number of pounds acquired in October, less the amount of fats on hand. This working inventory is designed to enable the collector to give retailers points for salvage fats when the program starts, as well as to provide a reserve of points.

Philadelphia, Dec. 8 (AP)—Three year prison sentences began today for a 44-year-old French woman, and her husband, 30, a former Austrian soldier who said he was a fugitive from a Nazi concentration camp.

U. S. District Judge George A. Welsh, who imposed the sentences, said he suspected they were spies after the couple had pleaded to contest to a charge that they made false statements to obtain a British passport in Lisbon to enable them to get into the United States. "A great deal of information reaches our enemies through underground channels and spies and I'm not certain we don't have two here," Judge Welsh said.

The couple were booked as Peter Henry Erdler and Jacqueline Maria Erdler. They told the court they escaped from Casablanca in a 31-foot sail boat in which they said they spent five nights and six days on the open seas.

Judge Welsh acted despite a recommendation of the Department of Justice that no sentence be imposed and a sworn statement by Capt. Paul Franciell, head of the military police division of the French National Committee of Liberation in this county, who said the couple would be assigned to duties abroad immediately if the court freed them.

GUFFEY SCORED BY COLLEAGUES

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—Leading Senate Democrats tried with soft words today to turn away the wrath of an unexpected and angry uprising by their southern colleagues.

Chairman Guffey (D-Pa.) of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee met with silence a double-barreled attack from Senators Byrd (D-Va.) and Bailey (D-NC)—an attack that wound up with Byrd demanding Guffey resign his campaign post.

There was a tendency among some influential Democratic members to dismiss as "pure rhetoric" Bailey's statement that the southern Democrats might form their own party.

The row flared up over Guffey's assertion that southern Democrats had formed an "unholy alliance" with the Republicans to "deprive the armed forces of America of the right to vote."

Denies Charge

He referred to last week's scrapping of a federal war ballot proposal in favor of a directive to the states requesting them to arrange for the armed forces to vote in next year's presidential election. "There is not one iota of truth in a single part of the statement," shouted Byrd. "The sooner Guffey resigns from his position (as senatorial campaign chairman) the better it will be for the Democratic party."

Bailey followed with an assertion the southerners were getting tired of being "scorned as 'southern Democrats'."

If the attacks continue, he said, "we will find a party which honors us not because we are southerners and not because of politics, but because we love our country."

No Subsidies For War Bond Promotion

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee today killed, in effect, legislation which would have authorized paid newspaper advertising to promote the sale of war bonds.

The vote in executive session was announced as 11 to 10.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said the action was to table the legislation, which had the effect of killing the bill. He said, however, that someone probably would introduce another such bill.

COAL TRUCKERS ASK HIGHER PAY

Pittsburgh, Dec. 8 (AP)—A unit of the United Mine Workers today tossed a new monkey-wrench into the machinery of war industry by demanding the hourly pay of 900 coal truckers servicing 10,000 vitally needed coke ovens be boosted from a minimum of 75 cents an hour to 89 1-10 cents.

Thomas P. McTigue, regional director of the United Construction Workers, a unit of UMW District 50, said the truckers were entitled to the raise because the War Labor board had approved an agreement between Fuels Administrator Harold L. Ickes and John L. Lewis giving the higher rate to other truckers working about the mines.

The coke ovens supply approximately 20 per cent of the fuel for the war-busy steel mills of this district, which now are operating near 100 per cent of capacity. The move was the first major reversion among workers in industries allied with the coal industry since the Ickes-Lewis agreement was reached and approved by the WLB last month.

"We recognize," said McTigue, "the operators will of necessity have to increase the price of coal to pay for this increase and will have to ask the OPA for higher prices."

One of the leaders in District 50 of the UMW is Secretary Katherine Lewis, daughter of the president of the UMW.

Miners To Receive Highest Pay Ever

Seranton, Pa., Dec. 8 (AP)—The state's anthracite miners will receive the highest Christmas pay in the history of the industry this year due to the application of the recent wage increases to former rates, plus back wages.

The peak wages were reported by the coal companies who, under the wage agreement with the government and the operators, are required to make payments of back pay for May and June before Christmas.

The amount due the individual miner, based on an average of 25 working days in those two months, will be approximately $35. This estimate is based upon 30 cents increase daily, made up of the WLB award of 32 1/2 cents and the reduced lunch hour agreement of 37 1/2 cents. In the case of contract miners the amount will be even higher as their expenditures for equipment in May and June are to be refunded.

MILK PARLEY REPORT FILED

Philadelphia, Dec. 8 (AP)—A full report on what Governor Edward Martin of Pennsylvania has termed "a threatened milk shortage in this and 11 other northeastern states" was on his desk today with the recommendation of a committee representing each of the states that "immediate action be taken on the situation."

Representatives from states along the Atlantic Seaboard from Virginia to Maine compiled the report in a 24-hour session here yesterday and all representatives agreed that "the milk shortage situation is even more serious than had been anticipated."

A spokesman for the conference said a resolution has been adopted "which is a vigorous expression" of the situation which state representatives regard as "critical."

What was contained in the resolution was not made public pending submission of the findings of the conference to governors of the states represented. "The group had been expected to seek a regional agreement under which the Office of Price Administration might consider authorization of higher retail milk prices, together with a commensurately higher return to dairy farmers."

TURK PARLEY BIG VICTORY FOR THE ALLIES

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)
The winning of ultra-conservative Turkey into "closest unity" and complete "identity of interest" with America, Britain and Russia, represents one of the major bloodless victories of the war, for there are few places of greater strategic importance than the territory and waters under Turkish control.

There's a double significance in this event, which was the outcome of a meeting between Turkey's President Ismet Inonu and Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill in Cairo. Apart from the moral and perhaps material strength acquired by the Allies, this agreement seems to me to mean that there must have been an ironing-out of long-standing and dangerous suspicions between Ankara and Moscow. This thought is strengthened by the fact that while Marshal Stalin himself could not be present, he joined in inviting Inonu to the parley, and thus gave the session his official blessings.

Control Dardanelles
Looking at the thing from all angles, I should say that the hand-shaking between the Muscovites and the Turks is a matter of greater moment even than the further cementing of the Anglo-American and Turkish friendship. That's so because the hard-eyed war the Russians and the Turks have watched each other play their cards has made other nations uneasy.

The point has been, of course, that the Turks control the Dardanelles—the famous strait which provides the only gateway the Russians have between the Black sea and outside waters.

Naturally Moscow has wanted to ensure her perpetual use of this waterway, which is more priceless than as though filled with molten rubies. Great wars have grown out of far less than that.

Ready to Help
So it's good to see the Turks and Muscovites smiling at each other. The pot of gold at the end of that rainbow will be a friendly adjustment of the status of the Dardanelles.

Does this Turko-Alied agreement mean that the Ottomans are going to join us in the war? Hard and fast conclusions on that question might be risky. I think the position is about like this:

The Turks appear to have given their outright allegiance to the United Nations. The indications are that Ankara is prepared to get into the war with both feet, if the Allies really need this additional military aid. Such a situation might arise from the projected all-out offensive against Hitler, and a call from the Allies likely would set the Turkish armies marching.

expected to check on agencies strung from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Shangri La to Timbuktu. Yet, I claim this is a more comprehensive list (of publications) than any agency of the government can furnish you, and I do not bar the Library of Congress, the National Archives, the Office of War Information or the Government Printing office.

"Some of these periodicals are obviously needed and are required by law. Others are not. I seek only to indicate the magnitude of this government enterprise and to submit that it needs review from the standpoint of wartime value and legitimate government activity."

"Heaven only knows how many thousands upon thousands of persons are employed in putting out all these various publications . . . and the people will stand aghast at the money that has been thrown away on useless information that is nothing in the world, generally speaking, but cleverly designed propaganda."

Congressman Bennett had inserted in The Congressional Record the "partial" list of the 441 publications, existence of which he was able to learn of with the assistance of his small staff.

Medical Society Hears Capt. Kwedar

Capt. Albert T. Kwedar, medical officer at the 55th College Detachment (Aircrew), Gettysburg college, spoke on "A Typical Pneumonia," at the December meeting of the Adams County Medical society Tuesday evening in the board room at the Warner hospital.

Capt. Kwedar told of his experience with that type of pneumonia while in the Army. He stated the mortality rate is very low although a patient becomes very ill. After two weeks of headaches, chills, fever, slow pulse and marked prostration a convalescent period of from four to six weeks is required and the Army usually issues furloughs for that length of time. The cause of this type of pneumonia is unknown and it is often difficult to differentiate with tuberculosis in its early stages, said the speaker.

Dr. D. B. Coover, Littlestown, president of the society, presided at the meeting with 12 members and three guests present. Routine business was transacted.

Fats' Collectors Must Register

Retailers, who beginning Monday, December 13, will give one brown ration point for each one-half pound of salvage kitchen fats turned in, will not be required to register under the points-for-fats program, it was announced today at the Harrisburg District Office of Price Administration.

Collectors, those who buy household fats from retailers and sell the fats to renderers for processing may register any time after December 9, at the OPA District Office. He is to show the number of pounds of household salvage fats he has on hand as well as the number of pounds of fats which he acquired for sale or transfer during October 1943. Collectors will be given an allowable, or working inventory, of points equal to twice the number of pounds acquired in October, less the amount of fats on hand. This working inventory is designed to enable the collector to give retailers points for salvage fats when the program starts, as well as to provide a reserve of points.

Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—Fredrick T. Gelder, renamed for a six-year term on the Liquor Control Board by Governor Martin, today continued in the chairmanship of the $150,000,000 liquor monopoly with the Chief Executive's full confidence.

The governor announced reappointment of the 69-year-old Forest City publisher to the $10,000 post at his press conference yesterday and said it showed his belief "in the integrity of Senator Gelder and the ability he has shown on the difficult job he has had to perform."

Martin also said he will fill another vacancy on the liquor board but withheld comment on who will get the job. He is reported considering giving the Democratic minority representation.

Gelder, informed of his retention, declared "I certainly appreciate the good will of the governor."

He was first named to the board in 1940 and after 20 years in the legislature and became chairman a year later.

Set January 1 For "Day Of Prayer"

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt has proclaimed January 1 as a national day of prayer for "strength and guidance for the problems of widening warfare and for the responsibilities of increasing victory."

The text of the proclamation, made public today by the White House, follows:

"At the end of the year 1943, which has not only made manifest the devotion and courage of our nation's sons but has also crowned their efforts with brilliant success on every battlefield, it is fitting that we set aside a day of prayer to give thanks to Almighty God for His constant providence over us in every hour of national peace and national peril."

Unless the two men are tried and acquitted within the next six months, or another extension is granted, the threat of punishment for alleged dereliction of duty will be removed.

HISTORIANS ARE

Judge D. P. McPherson, who were Edward's executors went over the papers contained in his collection and sent many of them, including most of those dealing with Thaddeus Stevens to the Library of Congress. In 1941, St. George L. Sioussat and Dr. Martin, of the Library, examined the remainder of the papers and determined they were of sufficient value to be placed in the Library of Congress. On February 3, 1941, the remaining papers were turned over to the national library.

Valuable Papers

The papers themselves have been divided into two groups, one whose historical interest lies in the autographs and the others whose information of a historic nature make them valuable, it was explained. Jay Cooke, Roscoe Conklyn, Governor A. G. Curtin, Hamilton Fish, J. A. Garfield, Horace Greeley, General Winfield Scott are among the men listed in the autograph group. The historical papers include papers on the origin of the upper Presbyterian congregation of the Marsh Creek church and Dig's claims; the papers in the estate of Hance Hamilton, the papers of the Black Tower turnpike company, ten boxes full of papers on Stevens, concerning his law practice and the iron industry at Caledonia and papers relating to the formation of York and Adams county and the Manor of the Masque.

Committees Named

Several minute books are included, among them, those of the Shakespeare Club of Gettysburg from 1847 to 1848; minutes of the Relief commission of Gettysburg, 1861; the safety commission of Gettysburg for 1861. Scrap books from 1848 to 1889 are also included in the collection.

A nominating committee was appointed, including Mrs. Raymond F. Topper, Dr. J. Walter Coleman, James S. Cairns, Miss Sara Lott and Homer Young, Esq., to report at the January meeting. An auditing committee including Miss Nina Storrick, Mr. McPherson and Miss Margaret McMillan was also appointed. The president, Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, presided at the session held at the court house.

MILK PARLEY REPORT FILED

Philadelphia, Dec. 8 (AP)—A full report on what Governor Edward Martin of Pennsylvania has termed "a threatened milk shortage in this and 11 other northeastern states" was on his desk today with the recommendation of a committee representing each of the states that "immediate action be taken on the situation."

Representatives from states along the Atlantic Seaboard from Virginia to Maine compiled the report in a 24-hour session here yesterday and all representatives agreed that "the milk shortage situation is even more serious than had been anticipated."

A spokesman for the conference said a resolution has been adopted "which is a vigorous expression" of the situation which state representatives regard as "critical."

What was contained in the resolution was not made public pending submission of the findings of the conference to governors of the states represented. The group had been expected to seek a regional agreement under which the Office of Price Administration might consider authorization of higher retail milk prices, together with a commensurately higher return to dairy farmers.

CANNERS TAKE TWO GAMES IN CAGE OPENERS

Biglerville high school varsity basketball teams successfully opened their season Tuesday evening by defeating Washington Township high in a double-header on the latter's court.

Coach Cecil Snyder's boys ran rough shod to win 41-21. Washington Township scored a field goal to open the scoring but after that it was all Biglerville. At half time the Cannners led 24-9. Walters led the upper countians with seven goals while Royer paced the losers with six.

The Biglerville girls also won in easy style, 38-10. There was never any doubt as to the outcome as Coach "Ehman's" girls dominated play throughout.

On Friday Biglerville will play its first home game with Hallam as the opponent. The game will take the nature of a family affair as Hallam is coached by Gerald M. Snyder, brother of Cecil Snyder, Biglerville coach. The boys' varsity and junior varsity teams will play.

Walmsley Follows Grange Footsteps

Goose Creek, Tex., Dec. 8 (AP)—Your footsteps are being followed, Red Grange—and pretty nearly filled, too!

Remember the day you handled the ball five times for five touchdowns played against Michigan, Mr. Grange?

George Walmsley, the Texas high school wonder, can look back on a day like that. He handled the ball three times for three touchdowns, all within 90 seconds; he could have done more, but he wasn't in any longer.

Walmsley, the 147-pound triple-threat of the unbeaten, untied Goose Creek Ganders, made his debut in 1940 at the age of 14. The coach sent him in a game to "hold down the score." Walmsley proceeded to make three touchdowns in that final period—one on an 80-yard run. Texas teams have been trying to stop him ever since.

Now he's a senior and has led his team to eleven straight victories. He has scored 12 touchdowns, passed for the same number, ran 24 punts back for 315 yards and intercepted five passes.

3 Maroon Gridders Honored By Coaches

Sammy Weaver, tackle on the Gettysburg high school football team for the past two years, was named to the third All-Southern Pennsylvania conference team in selections announced this week which were made by coaches of the team.

Sterrett Dorsey, Maroon back, was given honorable mention as was Charles Weaver, tackle.

Hockey Leaders Meet Tonight

(By The Associated Press) The Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League put their four-game winning streak on the line tonight against the formidable Hershey Bears on the Hershey home ice.

The game, one of two listed, brings together the leaders in the Eastern and Western divisions and shapes up as one of the fiercest of the season. Providence plays at Indianapolis in the other game.

Cleveland started its winning streak two weeks ago by beating Pittsburgh, 4-2. Since then the Barons have defeated Buffalo, 5-1, Indianapolis 2-1 and Providence 4-2.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—Local football experts figure that Emery Nix will be the grid Giants' "secret weapon" against the Redskins next Sunday. . . . Nix, a star passer at Texas Christian, hasn't done much tossing this season and they believe it's about time for him to cut loose. . . . Last Sunday it was Nix who fed the ball to Bill Paschal on that payoff play which was so deceptive even Steve Owen thought Dave Brown had the pizkin. . . . Wonder who'll be the first enterprising photographer to come up with a photo of Sport Shirt Bill Veck of the Milwaukee Brewers wearing a hat and tie after he reports as a Marine? . . . The Women's International Bowling Congress reports that Kay Gatto of Los Angeles has a new recipe for "Wings of Mercy Ice Box Cookies."

Does that mean the gals who are buying ambulance planes also will supply occupants?

COMBAT CORRESPONDENTS

The AP wires yesterday carried stories from Tarawa written by Marine combat correspondents Pete Zurlinden, who used to give you the dope on Navy football as AP correspondent at Annapolis, and Gene Ward, former New York Daily News sports scribe. . . . It only goes to prove that we can't keep a sports writer away from a good fight.

ANNIVERSARY NOTE

Yesterday was the second anniversary of Pearl Harbor. . . . It also was the occasion for the first showing of the American League's World Series film to local scribes, the presentation of the Lambert trophy to the Navy football team, a meeting of the Thoroughbred Racing Association, Inc., and one of the New York Tennis writers. . . . Today the boxing scribes gather to vote on the award of the Eddie Neil trophy—probably to Fred Apostoli or Benny Leonard. . . . Who was it said sports wouldn't survive a year of war?

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

The Helsen trophy—for being the season's most valuable football player—may be presented to Angelo Bertelli at Parris Island instead of New York. Bertelli couldn't get leave for the usual fiesta, which would have been held tonight, so the committee figures it would boost the Marines' morale to see him get the trophy at the base. . . . Ed "Strangler" Lewis, who held the world wrestling championship more times than you can count, recently appeared in the semi-final of a show topped by a bout between a "vicious brunette" and a "dizzy blonde." . . . All-America Pat Preston of Duke is a football product of the Mills Home orphanage at Thomasville, North Carolina—the same school that sent up Bolo Perdue to Duke's 1939 Rose Bowl team and Johnny Allen to big league baseball.

SCHOOLBOY STUFF

That Ansonia, Connecticut, high school kicker whose name we could not remember the other day is Kenneth Wheeler and his boosters say he not only kicked 21 out of 26 points after touchdowns this season but averaged about 40 yards on punts and completed seven touch-down passes. . . . New England college scouts have their eye on another bright prospect, John Clayton, a freshman at Chelmsford, Massachusetts, high. He's only 13 years old but was a standout performer at tackle, end and back.

SERVICE DEPT.

Boxing fans at Kresler Field, Mississippi, figure they have a show of their own to match the Joe Louis and company troupe that is due there soon. Pts. Charles and Herman Kapel, identical twins from Fairport, Ohio, recently mixed in a bout and before it was over the referee couldn't tell which was which and their commanding officer jumped into the ring to separate them. When the referee called the bout a draw, both twins went to work on him. . . . Ensign Charles F. O'Hara, one time Boston college hurler and Red Sox farmhand, had to quit baseball when he developed bursitis in his salary wing. Now he's gunnery officer on an American merchant ship—which must mean he's still in there pitching.

one of the leading contenders for the South Penn league title this season, opened its season Tuesday evening by walloping Mercersburg high 16-14.

NAVY TRAINEES GIVEN 9 POSTS ON ALL AMERICA

By CHIP ROYAL

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—There was a popular song in World War I that went something like this: "The Navy took you over and the Navy will bring you back!"

The first part of that little ditty is what happened to college football this year—the Navy took over.

In fact, Navy men went so far as to grab nine places on the 19th annual College All-America football team chosen today by the Associated Press Sports Editors and writers throughout the United States. The Army landed two men despite its refusal to permit students to participate in intercollegiate athletics.

All of which recalls a recent statement made by a top football coach. Asked to name an All-America team, the mentor said:

"Pick any two sailors, two coast guardsmen, two merchant mariners, two soldiers, a marine, a flier and a paratrooper — and how can you beat them?"

That statement goes double for the All-America. How can you go against these selections of the country's top sports writers when you look at the records?

First Team

On the ends are Joe Parker of Texas, a Navy medical student, and Ralph Heywood, a Southern California Marine V-12.

The tackles are Jim White, Notre Dame, Navy V-12; and Pat Preston, Duke, Marine V-12.

The guards are John Steber, Georgia Tech, Navy V-12; and George Brown, Jr., United States Naval Academy Junior.

Lined up over the ball at center is the brilliant West Point captain and senior Casimir Myslinski.

The backs are Bob Odell, Pennsylvania, Navy V-5; Creighton Miller, Notre Dame senior, who was given a medical discharge from the Army just before Notre Dame played its first game; Otto Graham, Northwestern, Navy V-5, and Bill Daley, Minnesota's gift to Michigan by way of the Navy V-12 class.

Irish Place Two

Notre Dame, voted the top football team of the nation since the start of the season, has placed two players on the first team and two on the second. Minnesota placed Bruce Smith and Dick Wildung on the big team in 1941.

Out of a total of 33 places on the All-America squad, the midwest landed 12 men. The east, with West Point and Annapolis holding sway, grabbed eight positions, three of them on the No. 1 team; the south, six; the far west, four; the southwest, two and the Rocky Mountains, one.

No matter how much a fan roots for the thousands of football players all over the country, he must admit that White is the top lineman and Miller, the most rip-snorting back in the country. Their opponents have been shouting it all season.

When they call White the best tackle on all the gridirons north, east, south and west, it's saying a lot. Never have so many cracker-jack tackles been considered for All-America honors.

The big Notre Dame lineman, a fullback at All-Hallows High school in New York when Scout Jack Lavelle discovered him, used his speed to such advantage this year that students of the "T" are wasting no words in proclaiming White as the baby who makes the formation click for the Irish.

Preston, a Wake Forest transfer, also is a standout among tackles. Weighing 205 pounds, three less than the Irish stalwart, Preston is one of the speediest men to climb into Blue Devil football togs.

Toughest to Stop

As for Miller, so many players, coaches and football writers have classed this seventh son of an illustrious South Bend family as the hardest guy to stop this year, he is practically a unanimous choice.

Creighton's speedy elusiveness in those fast-opening plays of the Irish was everything that beauty should be. In fact, all those would-be tacklers are still moaning that Miller was the hardest man to bring down. Daley is another speedster. While playing for Minnesota in 1942 he moved his 200 odd pounds over the century course in 10 seconds and gained honorable mention on two All-American squads. He has improved this year. In six appearances (before the Navy moved him elsewhere) Bill piled up 817 yards, averaging 6.8 every time he carried the ball.

Graham Called Greatest

Moving along to Graham, midwest football fans are calling him Northwestern's greatest back since the heyday of Pug Rentner in 1932. Otto was a power whether he was running, passing, kicking, receiving, blocking or tackling—a six-threater in every sense of the hyphenated word.

For one of his records, the 190-pounder from Jack Benny's home town of Waukegan, Illinois, completed 32 out of 63 aeriads for 491 yards in Western Conference games, and a new high.

Over his gridiron career of 25 games, Graham has 157 completions out of 321 tosses for 2,162 yards. Add his feats of this year when he averaged 38 yards per punt, seven out of nine extra points and 10 touchdowns, and you get a rough idea of why he was picked over Angelo (Flipper) Bertelli, Eddie Prokop of Georgia Tech, and others.

Bertelli can blame "Dead-eye" Johnny Lujack for not making the All-America. If Angelo had been able to finish out the season, it's dollars to doughnuts he would be on the first team. But, when Lujack stepped into his shoes for the toughest games on Notre Dame's schedule, and it made no difference to the Irish, it made Bertelli just another passer.

Odell couldn't be beat on the defense. Every coach who sent a team against Pennsylvania hurried back to the football writers' luncheons, and declared:

"That boy Odell is a sure All-America. He's the greatest blocker, tackler, and safety man in the country. He made the Quakers good."

Bowl Stuff on End

Going back to the line and the ends, Parker and Heywood are two six-footers who can catch passes and kick—if necessary.

Parker won three letters on the Texas varsity. Big and strong, he made the Longhorns' rooters cheer the way he manhandled all interference.

It was Heywood who made the end-around play popular again with Southern California. Pacific Coast fans say it is a sight for sore eyes to see the six foot, two inch end on his stuff. On top of that, Ralph's passes and consistent booting are two of the reasons why the Trojans are slated for the Rose Bowl.

Steber and Brown were all that any coach could ask for in guards. They were stonewalls on defense breaking through in more than one game to snare a ball carrier or passer. Neither one of them had a bad game all season and that is why they were chosen over an unusually good assortment of guards.

Last, but not least, is Army's center, Myslinski one of the smartest and popular captains to lead a West Point eleven. All good football fans know that the Cadets always have an ace center. Casimir was more than that. He was superb on offense and defense. He topped the Army line—one of the best defensive units in the country.

YOUNG PEOPLE BETTER

Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—Pennsylvania's young folks are "getting better behaved," Governor Martin told a press conference yesterday in commenting on a request that he name a panel to study state-wide juvenile delinquency.

BULLETS WILL PLAY 9 GAMES

Gettysburg college will play a nine-game basketball schedule this season it was announced today by Prof. C. E. Bilheimer, athletic director.

In addition to games with three service teams, Lehigh, Lebanon Valley and Albright will be met on a home and away basis. The three schools to be met are hampered in the same manner as the Bullets, inasmuch as only civilians will be available for varsity play.

The schedules for the varsity and freshmen follow:

Varsity Card

January 8—Armed Forces Induction Station, Harrisburg, at home; January 12—New Cumberland Reception Center, home; January 15—Middletown Air Service Command, home; January 22—Lehigh, home; January 29—Lebanon Valley, away; February 5—Albright, away; February 12—Albright, home; February 19—Lehigh, away, and February 26—Lebanon Valley, home.

MANY TO HUNT ANTLERLESS DEER

Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—The last of 50,000 special permits allotted for next week's antlerless deer season are going fast—many of them to hunters who have returned without the hoped-for buck.

"We'll probably be working day and night to get out the flood of requests," today declared Commission Director Seth Gordon. He blamed the last-minute rush for the licenses on:

The people who usually wait until the eleventh-hour to do anything, hunters who did not bag a buck in the season which closes Saturday and are hoping for another chance, and nimrods who returned from the northern tier counties with glowing reports of the number of doe they saw.

Gordon who said there are only 800 special licenses left for McKean county, about 3,000 for Potter and 1,500 for Tioga while the other four where antlerless deer will be legal Dec. 13 through Dec. 15—Lycoming, Sullivan, Warren and Cameron—have exhausted their quotas.

The present buck season, he added, has been disappointing and said present reports indicate the kill will fall far short of the 31,000 antlered deer bagged in 1942.

GIANT GRIDDER SLOWING DOWN

Chicago, Dec. 8 (AP)—Stout Steve Owen, skipper of the New York Giants, thumbed the big blonde kid off the field.

"You're doing a lot of running without getting anywhere," said Steve without joking. "You've got to get off the treadmill. Keep behind your interference, not ahead of it."

So Bill Paschal harnessed himself to give his blocking time to materialize. The guy who started as if he always saw a green light now is being ushered to the ground gaining championship of the National football league.

Record For Baugh

Paschal, 204-pound fullback, who set a season's high of 188 yards rushing against Washington last week, needs only 92 against the Redskins in another meeting Sunday to become the sixth rookie in nine years to win the ball-carrying title.

He must accumulate that yardage to beat out Clark Hinkle of Phil-Pitt, who picked up 59 yards against Green Bay, including a 38-yard touchdown sprint, for a season's output of 571.

After trailing Sid Luckman all season, the Redskins' Sammy Baugh appears destined to wind up Sunday with the passing championship. He only needs to keep his season percentage above Luckman's 545 to win after surpassing him in number of completions—117 to 110. Baugh's current average is 555.

ESTIMATES BUILDING COSTS

Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—Miss S. M. O'Hara, secretary of Welfare, estimated at $2,061,500 the cost of a new ward building at the Norristown State hospital, to be erected next spring, if the war production board approves, as part of the commonwealth's $9,357,000 building program at state institutions.

Phils Now Own Wilmington Club

Philadelphia, Dec. 8 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies of the National league have secured full control of the Wilmington, Delaware, club of the Interstate league and the minor league organization will immediately be incorporated in the Phillies' farm system.

Robert R. M. Carpenter, Jr., youthful new president of the Phillies, announced the transaction yesterday. Carpenter and his father, Robert R. M. Carpenter, Sr., who now owns more than half the Phillies stock, said they purchased Connie Mack's share of the Wilmington club and added that Mr. Mack "was more than fair" in his price. The purchase price was not disclosed, however.

Previous to yesterday the Wilmington club was owned jointly by the Carpenters and the Macks, owners of the Philadelphia Athletics of the American league. But baseball has a rule that does not permit two major league clubs to hold interest in one minor league team and it was necessary to dissolve the partnership.

CANNERS TAKE TWO GAMES IN CAGE OPENERS

Biglerville high school varsity basketball teams successfully opened their season Tuesday evening by defeating Washington Township high in a double-header on the latter's court.

Coach Cecil Snyder's boys ran rough shod to win 41-21. Washington Township scored a field goal to open the scoring but after that it was all Biglerville. At half time the Cannery led 24-9. Walters led the upper countians with seven goals while Royer paced the losers with six.

The Biglerville girls also won in easy style, 38-10. There was never any doubt as to the outcome as Coach Ehman's girls dominated play throughout.

On Friday Biglerville will play its first home game with Hallam as the opponent. The game will take the nature of a family affair as Hallam is coached by Gerald M. Snyder, brother of Cecil Snyder, Biglerville coach. The boys' varsity and junior varsity teams will play.

Walmsley Follows Grange Footsteps

Goose Creek, Tex., Dec. 8 (AP)—Your footsteps are being followed, Red Grange—and pretty nearly filled, too!

Remember the day you handled the ball five times for five touchdowns played against Michigan, Mr. Grange?

George Walmsley, the Texas high school wonder, can look back on a day like that. He handled the ball three times for three touchdowns, all within 90 seconds; he could have done more, but he wasn't in any longer.

Walmsley, the 147-pound triple-threat of the unbeaten, untied Goose Creek Ganders, made his debut in 1940 at the age of 14. The coach sent him in a game to "hold down the score." Walmsley proceeded to make three touchdowns in that final period—one on an 80-yard run.

Texas teams have been trying to stop him ever since.

Now he's a senior and has led his team to eleven straight victories. He has scored 12 touchdowns, passed for the same number, ran 24 punts back for 315 yards and intercepted five passes.

Hockey Leaders Meet Tonight

(By The Associated Press)

The Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League put their four-game winning streak on the line tonight against the formidable Hershey Bears on the Hershey home ice.

The game, one of two listed, brings together the leaders in the Eastern and Western divisions and shapes up as one of the fiercest of the season. Providence plays at Indianapolis in the other game.

Cleveland started its winning streak two weeks ago by beating Pittsburgh, 4-2. Since then the Barons have defeated Buffalo, 5-1, Indianapolis 2-1 and Providence 4-2.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—Local football experts figure that Emery Nix will be the grid Giants' "secret weapon" against the Redskins next Sunday. . . . Nix, a star passer at Texas Christian, hasn't done much tossing this season and they believe it's about time for him to cut loose. . . . Last Sunday it was Nix who fed the ball to Bill Paschal on that payoff play which was so deceptive even Steve Owen thought Dave Brown had the pigskin. . . . Wonder who'll be the first enterprising photographer to come up with a photo of Sport Shirt Bill Vecek of the Milwaukee Brewers wearing a hat and tie after he reports as a Marine? . . . The Women's International Bowling Congress reports that Kay Gatto of Los Angeles has a new recipe for "Wings of Mercy Ice Box Cookies."

Does that mean the gals who are buying ambulance planes also will supply occupants?

COMBAT CORRESPONDENTS

The AP wires yesterday carried stories from Tarawa written by Marine combat correspondents Pete Zurlinden, who used to give you the dope on Navy football as AP correspondent at Annapolis, and Gene Ward, former New York Daily News sports scribe. . . . It only goes to prove that you can't keep a sports writer away from a good fight.

ANNIVERSARY NOTE

Yesterday was the second anniversary of Pearl Harbor. . . . It also was the occasion for the first showing of the American League's World Series film to local scribes, the presentation of the Lambert trophy to the Navy football team, a meeting of the Thoroughbred Racing Associations, Inc., and one of the New York Tennis writers. . . . Today the boxing scribes gather to vote on the award of the Eddie Neil trophy—probably to Fred Apostoli or Benny Leonard. . . . Who was it said sports wouldn't survive a year of war?

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

The Heisman trophy—for being the season's most valuable football player—may be presented to Angelo Bertelli at Parris Island instead of New York. Bertelli couldn't get leave for the usual fiesta, which would have been held tonight, so the committee figures it would boost the Marines' morale to see him get the trophy at the base. . . . Ed "Strangler" Lewis, who held the world wrestling championship more times than you can count, recently appeared in the semi-final of a "vittorio brunette" and a "dizzy blonde."

All-America Pat Preston of Duke is a football product of the Mills Home orphanage at Thomasville, North Carolina—the same school that sent up Bolo Perdue to Duke's 1939 Rose Bowl team and Johnny Allen to big league baseball.

SCHOOLBOY STUFF

That Ansonia, Connecticut, high school kicker whose name we could not remember the other day is Kenneth Wheeler and his boosters say he not only kicked 21 out of 26 points after touchdowns this season but averaged about 40 yards on punts and completed seven touchdown passes. . . . New England college scouts have their eye on another bright prospect, John Clayton, a freshman at Chelmsford, Massachusetts, high. He's only 13 years old but was a standout performer at tackle, end and back.

SERVICE DEPT.

Boxing fans at Keesler Field, Mississippi, figure they have a show of their own to match the Joe Louis and company troupe that is due there soon. Pkts. Charles and Herman Kapel, identical twins from Fairport, Ohio, recently mixed in a bout and before it was over the referee couldn't tell which was which and their commanding officer jumped into the ring to separate them. When the referee called the bout a draw, both twins went to work on him. . . . Ensign Charles F. O'Hara, one time Boston college hurler and Red Sox farmhand, had to quit baseball when he developed bursitis in his salary wing. Now he's gunnery officer on an American merchant ship—which must mean he's still in there pitching.

one of the leading contenders for the South Penn league title this season, opened its season Tuesday evening by walloping Mercersburg high 66-14.

NAVY TRAINEES GIVEN 9 POSTS ON ALL AMERICA

By CHIP ROYAL

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—There was a popular song in World War I that went something like this: "The Navy took you over and the Navy will bring you back!"

The first part of that little ditty is what happened to college football this year—the Navy took over.

In fact, Navy men went so far as to grab nine places on the 19th annual College All-America football team chosen today by the Associated Press Sports Editors and writers throughout the United States. The Army landed two men despite its refusal to permit students to participate in intercollegiate athletics.

All of which recalls a recent statement made by a top football coach. Asked to name an All-America team, the mentor said:

"Pick any two sailors, two coast guardsmen, two merchant mariners, two soldiers, a marine, a flier and a paratrooper — and how can you beat them?"

That statement goes double for the All-America. How can you go against these selections of the country's top sports writers when you look at the records?

First Team

On the ends are Joe Parker of Texas, a Navy medical student, and Ralph Heywood, a Southern California Marine V-12.

The tackles are Jim White, Notre Dame, Navy V-12; and Pat Preston, Duke, Marine V-12.

The guards are John Steber, Georgia Tech, Navy V-12; and George Brown, Jr., United States Naval Academy Junior.

Lined up over the ball at center is the brilliant West Point captain and senior Casimir Myslinski.

The backs are Bob Odell, Pennsylvania, Navy V-5; Creighton Miller, Notre Dame senior, who was given a medical discharge from the Army just before Notre Dame played its first game; Otto Graham, Northwestern, Navy V-5, and Bill Daley, Minnesota's gift to Michigan by way of the Navy V-12 class.

Irish Place Two

Notre Dame, voted the top football team of the nation since the start of the season, has placed two players on the first team and one on the second. Minnesota placed Bruce Smith and Dick Wildung on the big team in 1941.

Out of a total of 33 places on the All-America squad, the midwest landed 12 men. The east, with West Point and Annapolis holding sway, grabbed eight positions, three of them on the No. 1 team; the south, six; the far west, four; the southwest, two and the Rocky Mountains, one.

No matter how much a fan roots for the thousands of football players all over the country, he must admit that White is the top line-man and Miller, the most rip-snorting back in the country. Their opponents have been shouting it all season.

When they call White the best tackle on all the gridirons north, east, south and west, it's saying a lot. Never have so many crack-jack tackles been consueered for All-America honors.

The big Notre Dame lineman, a fullback at All-Hallows High school in New York when Scout Jack Lavelle discovered him, used his speed to such advantage this year that students of the "T" are wasting no words in proclaiming White as the baby who makes the formation click for the Irish.

Preston, a Wake Forest transfer, also is a standout among tackles. Weighing 205 pounds, three less than the Irish stalwart, Preston is one of the speediest men to climb into Blue Devil football tops.

Toughest to Stop

As for Miller, so many players, coaches and football writers have classed this seventh son of an illustrious South Bend family as the hardest guy to stop this year, he is practically a unanimous choice.

Creighton's speedy elusiveness in those fast-opening plays of the Irish was everything that beauty should be. In fact, all those would-be tacklers are still moaning that Miller was the hardest man to bring down.

Daley is another speedster. While playing for Minnesota in 1942 he moved his 200 odd pounds over the century course in 10 seconds and gained honorable mention on two All-American squads. He has improved this year. In six appearances (before the Navy moved him elsewhere) Bill piled up 817 yards, averaging 6.8 every time he carried the ball.

The country's top fullback really went to town though when the Wolverines lost to Notre Dame, Daley juggled the pigskin 24 times and picked up 135 yards. That's the mostest distance any back has notched against Frank Leahy's boys all year.

Graham Called Greatest

Moving along to Graham, midwest football fans are calling him Northwestern's greatest back since the heyday of Pug Rentner in 1932. Otto was a power whether he was running, passing, kicking, receiving, blocking or tackling—a six-threat in every sense of the hyphenated word.

For one of his records, the 190-pounder from Jack Benny's hometown of Waukegan, Illinois, completed 32 out of 63 aeriels for 491 yards in Western Conference games, and a new high.

Over his gridiron career of 25 games, Graham has 157 completions out of 321 tosses for 2,162 yards. Add his feats of this year when he averaged 38 yards per punt, seven out of nine extra points and 10 touchdowns, and you get a rough idea of why he was picked over Angelo (Flipper) Bertelli, Eddie Prokop of Georgia Tech, and others.

Bertelli can blame "Dead-eye" Johnny Lujack for not making the All-America. If Angelo had been able to finish out the season, it's dollars to doughnuts he would be on the first team. But, when Lujack stepped into his shoes for the toughest games on Notre Dame's schedule, and it made no difference to the Irish, it made Bertelli just another passer.

Odell couldn't be beat on the defense. Every coach who sent a team against Pennsylvania hurried back to the football writers' luncheons and declared:

"That boy Odell is a sure All-America. He's the greatest blocker, tackler, and safety man in the country. He made the Quakers good."

Bowl Stuff on End

Going back to the line and the ends, Parker and Heywood are two six-footers who can catch passes and kick—if necessary.

Parker won three letters on the Texas varsity. Big and strong, he made the Longhorns' rooters cheer the way he manhandled all interference.

It was Heywood who made the end-around play popular again with Southern California. Pacific Coast fans say it is a sight for sore eyes to see the six foot, two inch end in his stuff. On top of that, Ralph's passes and consistent booting are two of the reasons why the Trojans are slated for the Rose Bowl.

Steber and Brown were all that any coach could ask for in guards. They were stone walls on defense breaking through in more than one game to snare a ball carrier or passer. Neither one of them had a bad game all season and that is why they were chosen over an unusually good assortment of guards.

Last, but not least, is Army's center, Myslinski one of the smartest and popular captains to lead a West Point eleven. All good football fans know that the Cadets always have an ace center. Casimir was more than that. He was superb on offense and defense. He topped the Army line—one of the best defensive units in the country.

Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—Pennsylvania's young folks are "getting better behaved," Governor Martin told a press conference yesterday in commenting on a request that he name a panel to study state-wide juvenile delinquency.

BULLETS WILL PLAY 9 GAMES

Gettysburg college will play a nine-game basketball schedule this season. It was announced today by Prof. C. E. Bilheimer, athletic director.

In addition to games with three service teams, Lehigh, Lebanon Valley and Albright will be met on a home and away basis. The three schools to be met are hampered in the same manner as the Bullets, inasmuch as only civilians will be available for varsity play.

The schedules for the varsity and freshmen follow:

Varsity Card

January 8—Armed Forces Induction Station, Harrisburg, at home; January 12—New Cumberland Reception Center, home; January 15—Middletown Air Service Command, home; January 22—Lehigh, home; January 29—Lebanon Valley, away; February 5—Albright, away; February 12—Albright, home; February 19—Lehigh, away; and February 26—Lebanon Valley, home.

Freshman Schedule

January 18—Delone Catholic, away; February 2—Delone Catholic, home; February 8—Gettysburg high, away; February 23—Gettysburg high, home.

MANY TO HUNT ANTLERLESS DEER

Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—The last of 50,000 special permits allotted for next week's antlerless deer season are going fast—many of them to hunters who have returned without the hoped-for buck.

"We'll probably be working day and night to get out the flood of requests," today declared Commission Director Seth Gordon. He blamed the last-minute rush for the licenses on:

The people who usually wait until the eleventh-hour to do anything, hunters who did not bag a buck in the season which closes Saturday and are hoping for another chance, and the northern tier counties with glowing reports of the number of doe they saw.

Gordon who said there are only 800 special licenses left for McKean county, about 3,000 for Potter and 1,500 for Tioga while the other four where antlerless deer will be legal Dec. 13 through Dec. 15—Lycoming, Sullivan, Warren and Cameron—have exhausted their quotas.

The present buck season, he added, has been disappointing and said present reports indicate the kill will fall far short of the 31,000 antlered deer bagged in 1942.

ESTIMATES BUILDING COSTS

Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—Miss S. M. O'Hara, secretary of Welfare, estimated at $2,061,500 the cost of a new ward building at the Norristown State hospital, to be erected next spring, if the war production board approves, as part of the commonwealth's $9,357,000 building program at state institutions.

GIANT GRIDDER SLOWING DOWN

Chicago, Dec. 8 (AP)—Stout Steve Owen, skipper of the New York Giants, thumbed the big blonde kid off the field.

"You're doing a lot of running without getting anywhere," said Steve without joking. "You've got to get off the treadmill. Keep behind your interference, not ahead of it."

So Bill Paschal harnessed himself to give his blocking time to materialize. The guy who started as if he always saw a green light now is being ushered to the ground gaining championship of the National football league.

Record For Baugh

Paschal, 204-pound fullback, who set a season's high of 188 yards rushing against Washington last week, needs only 92 against the Redskins in another meeting Sunday to become the sixth rookie in nine years to win the ball-carrying title.

He must accumulate that yardage to beat out Clark Hinkle of Phil-Pitt, who picked up 59 yards against Green Bay, including a 38-yard touchdown sprint, for a season's output of 571.

After trailing Sid Luckman all season, the Redskins' Sammy Baugh appears destined to wind up Sunday with the passing championship. He only needs to keep his season percentage above Luckman's 545 to win after surpassing him in number of completions—117 to 110. Baugh's current average is 555.

STATE MAY BE USED TO TEST 4TH TERM PLAN
By WICK TEMPLE
Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP) — Traditionally Republican Pennsylvania, twice hitched to the Democratic band wagon by President Roosevelt, today was advanced as a possible testing ground for fourth term sentiment next year.
Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence disclosed in reply to a question in an interview that Mr. Roosevelt's name will be entered in next April's presidential primary by his adherents regardless of the President's silence on future plans.
No GOP Plans
Outcome of such votes is advisory and not binding on delegates to National party conventions who are selected at the primary. Pennsylvania has the second largest delegations.
Lawrence declined elaboration on his statement that "of course he will be entered," but State Committee Secretary J. Warren Mickie explained the object "is to show the country we want Roosevelt and to advise the convention delegates."
Republican chieftain M. Harvey Taylor said he has no knowledge of any plans to enter GOP presidential candidates on his party's ticket. Governor Edward Martin and other party leaders want an unopposed delegation to the National convention.
"Just As Wrong In '44"
Lack of word from the White House on fourth term aspirations has no effect on entering Mr. Roosevelt in the primary. Anyone may place a presidential candidate without his consent by paying a $50 fee and filing nominating petitions signed by 100 registered party members from each of 10 counties.
Democratic leaders entered Mr. Roosevelt in both 1936—filing petitions on his birthday—and 1940. He went on to carry the state in the general elections by 600,000 over Alfred M. Landon and 281,000 over Wendell L. Willkie.
The Republican sweep in this year's municipal elections, however, brought predictions from Taylor, Martin and National Chairman Harrison M. Spangler that the triumphant march will carry into the presidential campaign. Lawrence replied GOP chiefs made similar claims in 1936 and 1940 and are "just as wrong on 1944."

St. Helens, Ore. (AP) — Benjamin F. Carter, 34, scheduled for trial soon on charges of burglary, car theft and forgery, handed the sheriff a letter to Santa Claus.
It asked for a dozen hack saw blades, a long rope, and a 16-cylinder car with a tank full of gas.
Carter is gone now. He sawed his way out. Maybe there was a 16-cylinder car waiting, too; officers don't know.

All he found was a stump.

LAUNCHING OF WISCONSIN IS DEC. 7 EVENT
Philadelphia, Dec. 8 (AP) — The super battleship Wisconsin, 45,000 tons of fighting steel slid down the ways at the Philadelphia Navy Yard Tuesday, a symbol of the might of the "new" American Navy born after the shattering Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor just two years ago.
The floating fortress hit the waters of the Delaware river after being officially christened by Mrs. Walter S. Goodland, wife of the governor of Wisconsin. Governor Goodland and a Wisconsin delegation of 19 persons including state and legislative officials were present at the ceremonies.
The Wisconsin, a sister ship of the New Jersey launched at the same yards a year ago, is listed by unofficial publication "Jane's Fighting Ships" as displacing 45,000 tons without crew and normal equipment. Loaded for sea duty she will displace 52,000 tons.
A ship of the Wisconsin type would normally carry nine 16-inch guns in her main battery, be approximately 880 feet in length and have a top speed of more than 30 knots, the publication states.
The super ship cost approximately $90,000,000 and will not be listed as a production record by the shipyard because of what officials termed "a shortage of labor." The ship was under production for more than two years. She will replace the old battleship Wisconsin, a veteran of the first World war, which was scrapped in 1922.
11 Old Crewmen
The Navy estimated that approximately 45 tons of a special grease will be used to slip the giant ship into the water.
"You could use the old Wisconsin as a captain's barge for this one," remarked Clement G. Lanni, Rochester, New York, publisher after he inspected the super ship.
Lanni, who served aboard the old Wisconsin as a boatswain's mate in the first World war, is one of 11 former crewmen of the ship who will be guests at the launching.
The men are members of the first battalion which was sent here from New York in 1917 to put the Wisconsin in commission. All served aboard her throughout the war.

Martin Cannot Aid Free-Lance Miners
Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 8 (AP) — Governor Martin, asked by free lance coal miners to intervene again in their efforts to get coal land leases to meet the requirement of the Anthracite committee's ban on unauthorized mining, announced "there is nothing I can do about it."
The chief executive made the statement to his press conference yesterday after a delegation of the independent mine workers of Minersville saw him briefly. He added "I didn't tell them anything. It is a matter for Secretary of Mining Richard Maize and Secretary of Commerce Floyd Chalfant."
John O'Brien and Charles Martin, president and secretary respectively, of the Minersville group, said they asked the governor for a conference on what they said was the United Mine Workers' refusal to permit collieries to buy coal they mine.
The ban on unauthorized mining has been in effect since Nov. 30 and Governor Martin said he had not heard of any developments in the hard coal fields.

STATE COLLEGE RECORD
State College, Pa., Dec. 8 (AP) — Pennsylvania State College Alumni Association today reported 74 graduates are dead and missing in this war, equalling the number who lost their lives throughout the entire first world war. In addition, eight others are listed as prisoners of war. The number of former students in active service was estimated at 7,500.
The alumni association is now making a list of graduates who served in the war to help the War Relocation Authority to buy coal they mine.
The ban on unauthorized mining has been in effect since Nov. 30 and Governor Martin said he had not heard of any developments in the hard coal fields.

FIREMEN PICK HAZLETON
Hazleton, Pa., Dec. 8 (AP) — The next annual convention of the Pennsylvania Firemen's Association will be held in Hazleton during the first week of October, 1944, according to an announcement Tuesday by Frank Dean, of Lancaster, chairman of the State association's executive committee.

And while for him she burns a lamp

The Boy Scout leader's wife must be
As wise in many arts as he;
Must learn to stretch a meal for four—
At times for eight or nine or more—
When friends of his drop into town;
And never scold and never frown
At midnight when he brings them back
And asks for coffee and a snack;
And never sigh, when on the phone
He tells her she must dine alone.
The Boy Scout leader's wife must be
As fond of boyhood as is he.
And see the far off future when
Our country will have need of men.

And able men, its tasks to do,
And honest men, and clean and strong,
And men too big to stoop to wrong.
Or never shed consent to be
The wife of such an absentee.

PERENNIAL YOUTH
It is difficult for any of us, who knew and loved the late Dr. William Lyon Phelps, familiarly known everywhere as plain Billy Phelps, to realize that he could never die! He was still a vibrant, stimulating, and inspiring boy at the age of—nearly 80!
It was in the autumn of 1892 that a group of students gathered about the door of a Yale building awaiting the first class of English literature ever to be taught to freshmen. Another boy, joining the group, stepped up to the door and tried it. "The Prof hasn't got here yet," several voices uttered. The boy then reached into his pocket, took out a key and unlocked the door. They had taken Billy Phelps for a classmate. Fifty years later he was still a boy! He died as a boy.
But there was nothing boyish about Billy Phelps' ideas, for he was one of the great scholars of the world, in literature, and drew both young and old to him by his magnetic, and lovable, personality.
And now they are going to honor this great human being at Yale University in a worthwhile Memorial—not in some cold, lifeless statue, but in an ever increasing collection of books to form a separate library, known as the William Lyon Phelps Memorial, each new book containing his own personal bookplate. His own great collection of books has formed the nucleus, and all important new books are to be added, so as to make it one of the outstanding collections in the midst of many of note. I can think of no finer contribution to be made than to pay honor to this great friend of books and people, in this manner.
Thus will Billy Phelps continue to live in the hearts of thousands of boys who will study at Yale, and go out later to help make this a better world.
That which gave perennial youth to Billy Phelps was the fact that he never thought of getting old, or of letting go of his youthful ideas. And although he threw these ideas far and wide, he always had an abundance from where they first came. He was so imbued with ideas and enthusiasm that he made his students enjoy learning!

Says Price Control Is Primary Issue
Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—Declaring that "taxes or inflation in the end will get us all," Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) today urged an "all-out price control" measure as the one hope of averting a cost-of-living crisis on the home front.
O'Mahoney, concurring with War Mobilization Director James P. Byrnes' assertion last night that the "primary issue before the American people today is whether we are going to keep down the cost of living," said:
"We can avoid inflation and at the same time correct injustices that now exist by establishing a new line and holding it, a line worked out on the basis of equity."
While existing controls call for stabilization of wages and prices generally at the levels of Sept. 15, 1942, O'Mahoney contended that injustices had grown out of their administration.

Club Privileges Open To Women
Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—Women may be admitted as social members of clubs, holding liquor licenses, with full buying privileges, providing the organization's by-laws permit such action, Chairman Frederick T. Gelder, of the Liquor Control Board said Tuesday.
Commenting on a situation at Erie where board representatives ordered licensed clubs to stop selling liquor to members of auxiliary organizations, Gelder said in an interview:
"Provided by the law, an organization holding a club liquor or malt beverage license may sell alcoholic beverages only to bona fide members, who are admitted to membership in the organization by written application, investigation and ballot."
In the event a licensed organization desires to provide for the admission to social membership within the club of the ladies comprising the women's auxiliaries, the matter can be accomplished by appropriate amendment of the by-laws for the purpose of authorizing that type of membership.
"The amount of dues to be charged and collected in the case of social members is a matter to be determined by the licensed organization."

STATE MAY BE USED TO TEST
4TH TERM PLAN

By WICK TEMPLE

Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—Traditionally Republican Pennsylvania, twice hitched to the Democratic band wagon by President Roosevelt, today was advanced as a possible testing ground for fourth term sentiment next year.

Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence disclosed in reply to a question in an interview that Mr. Roosevelt's name will be entered in next April's presidential primary by his adherents regardless of the President's silence on future plans.

No GOP Plans

Outcome of such votes is advisory and not binding on delegates to National party conventions who are selected at the primary. Pennsylvania has the second largest delegations.

Lawrence declined elaboration on his statement that "of course he will be entered," but State Committee Secretary J. Warren Mickle explained the object "is to show the country we want Roosevelt and to so advise the convention delegates." Republican chieftain M. Harvey Taylor said he has no knowledge of any plans to enter GOP presidential candidates on his party's ticket. Governor Edward Martin and other party leaders want an uninstructed delegation to the National convention.

"Just As Wrong In '44"

Lack of word from the White House on fourth term aspirations has no effect on entering Mr. Roosevelt in the primary. Anyone may place a presidential candidate without his consent by paying a $50 fee and filing nominating petitions signed by 100 registered party members from each of 10 counties.

Democratic leaders entered Mr. Roosevelt in both 1936—filing petitions on his birthday—and 1940. He went on to carry the state in the general elections by 600,000 over Alfred M. Landon and 281,000 over Wendell L. Willkie.

The Republican sweep in this year's municipal elections, however, brought predictions from Taylor, Martin and National Chairman Harrison M. Spangler that the triumphant march will carry into the presidential campaign. Lawrence replied GOP chiefs made similar claims in 1936 and 1940 and are "just as wrong on 1944."

Says Price Control
Is Primary Issue

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—Declaring that "taxes or inflation in the end will get us all," Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) today urged an "all-out price control" measure as the one hope of averting a cost-of-living crisis on the home front.

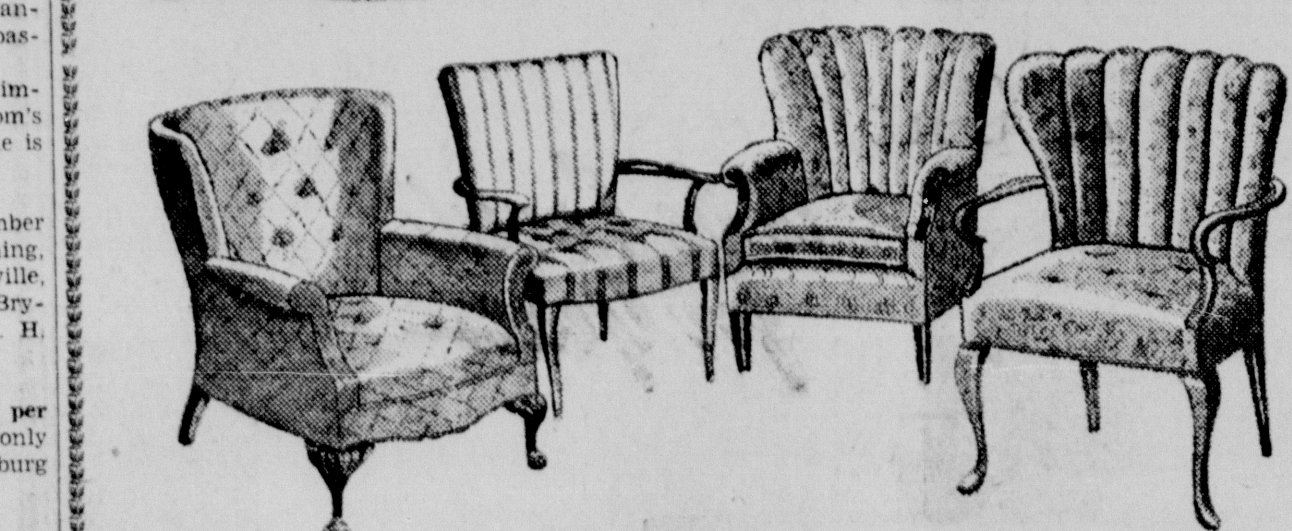

O'Mahoney, concurring with War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes' assertion last night that the "primary issue before the American people today is whether we are going to keep down the cost of living," said:

"We can avoid inflation and at the same time correct injustices that now exist by establishing a new line and holding it, a line worked out on the basis of equity."

While existing controls call for stabilization of wages and prices generally at the levels of Sept. 15, 1942, O'Mahoney contended that injustices had grown out of their administration.

LABELS

Portland, Ore., (AP)—Recruits at the Armed Forces induction station were asked their names and choice of service.

"I'm Wild, and I want to join the Navy," said one.

"I'm Wilder, said the next in line.

"Put me in the Marines."

YES, VIRGINIA

St. Helens, Ore. (AP)—Benjamin P. Carter, 34, scheduled for trial soon on charges of burglary, car theft and forgery, handed the sheriff a letter to Santa Claus.

It asked for a dozen hack saw blades, a long rope, and a 16-cylinder car with a tank full of gas.

Carter is gone now. He sawed his way out. Maybe there was a 16-cylinder car waiting, too; officers don't know.

TREES

Denver, (AP)—Christmas trees being scarce, R. M. Sealock, thoughtfully eyed the blue spruce he had planted in his back yard.

Finally, though, he bought a tree, much smaller and scragglier. He went out again to admire the one growing in his yard.

All he found was a stump.

YOUNG IN HEART

Green Bay, Wis. (AP)—"I don't know what we're going to do about these bicyclists," said Police Sgt. Harry Bultman as he looked over a report on a collision between a bicycle and an automobile.

The bicyclist, who escaped with bruises, was 81.

CLUB PRIVILEGES
OPEN TO WOMEN

Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—Women may be admitted as social members of clubs, holding liquor licenses, with full buying privileges, providing the organization's by-laws permit such action, Chairman Frederick T. Gelder of the Liquor Control Board said Tuesday.

Commenting on a situation at Erie where board representatives ordered licensed clubs to stop selling liquor to members of auxiliary organizations, Gelder said in an interview:

"Provided by the law, an organization holding a club liquor or malt beverage license may sell alcoholic beverages only to bonafide members, who are admitted to membership in the organization by written application, investigation and ballot.

"In the event a licensed organization desires to provide for the admission to social membership within the club of the ladies comprising the women's auxiliaries, the matter can be accomplished by appropriate amendment of the by-laws for the purpose of authorizing that type of membership.

"The amount of dues to be charged and collected in the case of social members is a matter to be determined by the licensed organization."

LAUNCHING OF
WISCONSIN IS
DEC. 7 EVENT

Philadelphia, Dec. 8 (AP)—The super battleship Wisconsin, 45,000 tons of fighting steel slid down the ways at the Philadelphia Navy Yard Tuesday, a symbol of the might of the "new" American Navy born after the shattering Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor just two years ago.

The floating fortress hit the waters of the Delaware river after being officially christened by Mrs. Walter S. Goodland, wife of the governor of Wisconsin. Governor Goodland and a Wisconsin delegation of 19 persons including state and legislative officials were present at the ceremonies.

The Wisconsin, a sister ship of the New Jersey launched at the same yards a year ago, is listed by unofficial publication "Jane's Fighting Ships" as displacing 45,000 tons without crew and normal equipment. Loaded for sea duty she will displace 52,000 tons.

A ship of the Wisconsin type would normally carry nine 16-inch guns in her main battery, be approximately 880 feet in length and have a top speed of more than 30 knots, the publication states.

The super ship cost approximately $90,000,000 and will not be listed as a production record by the shipyard because of what officials termed "a shortage of labor." The ship was under production for more than two years. She will replace the old battleship Wisconsin, a veteran of the first World War, which was scrapped in 1922.

11 Old Crewmen

The Navy estimated that approximately 45 tons of a special grease will be used to slip the giant ship into the water.

"You could use the old Wisconsin as a captain's barge for this one," remarked Clement G. Lanni, Rochester, New York, publisher after he inspected the super ship.

Lanni, who served aboard the old Wisconsin as a boatswain's mate in the first World War, is one of 11 former crewmen of the ship who will be guests at the launching.

The men are members of the first battalion which was sent here from New York in 1917 to put the Wisconsin in commission. All served aboard her throughout the war.

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 8 (AP)—Governor Martin, asked by free lance coal miners to intervene again in their efforts to get coal land leases to meet the requirement of the Anthracite committee's ban on unauthorized mining, announced "there is nothing I can do about it."

The chief executive made the statement to his press conference yesterday after a delegation of the independent mine workers of Minersville saw him briefly. He added "I didn't tell them anything. It is a matter for Secretary of Mining Richard Maize and Secretary of Commerce Floyd Chalfant."

John O'Brien and Charles Martin, president and secretary respectively, of the Minersville group, said they asked the governor for a conference on what they said was the United Mine Workers' refusal to

STATE COLLEGE RECORD

State College, Pa., Dec. 8 (AP)—Pennsylvania State College Alumni Association today reported 74 graduates are dead and missing in this war, equalling the number who lost their lives throughout the entire first world war. In addition, eight others are listed as prisoners of war. The number of former students in active service was estimated at 7,500.

The ban on unauthorized mining has been in effect since Nov. 30 and Governor Martin said he had not heard of any developments in the hard coal fields.

reasons. It does not protect poor teaching.

The local organizations hurt not only themselves but the State PSEA movement when they use detrimental means to obtain unwarranted ends. Dr. Gaman asserted "Do not try to do too much," he warned the local group, "work slowly and determine what you can do before you try to do anything."

To Watch Legislature Mr. Moser discussed the problem of sick leaves with the 60 teachers present and explained how other counties in the state have secured sick leave arrangements for teachers.

A legislative committee comprising Leslie V. Stock, Biglerville; Clyde McCauslin and L. L. Stavelly, Littlestown, was appointed to study all legislation affecting teachers and to report to the county unit as legislation is brought forward in the state legislature.

Tentative plans for the program to be presented by the county PSEA at next year's institute during the half day to be given over to the county group were discussed with the arrangements to be completed at a meeting in the spring. The next session of the county PSEA will be held in March or April, Dr. Hamm announced.

FINAL ASSEMBLY

By E. H. LEFTWICH

Chapter 24

Pete lost no time in seeing Kitty. "I've found out things," he said with a grin. "But not everything, so start talking."

So she told him all about it. "My boss in Washington, who is assistant to the chief of the FBI, called me into his office. I thought that he was going to give me a routine letter, but this time he was far more serious than ever before.

"He explained the set-up at the Melvin plant. Due to the importance of the 'Melvin Menace,' he figured there might be sabotage. But all of his men were busy on special assignments. He asked me if I would be willing to go to the plant as a worker, keep my eyes open and work with the company detective."

"And that," Pete interrupted, "was why you were so thick with Brackmyde?"

"Yes. You see my work in the plant wasn't official with respect to the FBI, yet my boss felt I would be useful, since no one would suspect a dumb worker."

"Then, your sloppy workmanship was just an act?"

"Yes. I assure you that I can do much better than the work you saw me doing while you were making your observations."

Pete laughed and looked at his watch. "Time for the first whistle," he said. "We'd better be going in." Arm in arm they joined the straggling line of workers on their way to the plant entrance. To their right, the deep red sun hung low in the afternoon sky, over the test-flight ramp.

"You know," Pete said, "you have been first-aid's best customer. Was that also an act?"

"Not exactly. I was so busy looking out for trouble that I wasn't as careful as I would have been, ordinarily."

"I see. Then, how are you going to like your new position as Supervisor of Blueprint Interpretation department?"

"I'll like it so well," Kitty said, squeezing his arm, "that I've already turned in my resignation to my boss in Washington. I'm going to stay here and put that job over in a big way."

"That's great, Kitty. I thought you'd like that job."

"What do you mean, you thought I'd like it. Did you have anything to do with it?"

"Well, now," Pete broke in. "You had me on the spot. You can imagine what kind of a report I'd have had to turn in on you. I had to do something. I invented that job for you."

Kitty squeezed his arm again, harder. "You're sweet," she said.

At the time-clock they parted. "See you at lunch-time," Pete said.

"And now, Mister Neil," Kitty asked, as they made their way back toward the line after lunch, "just what are you going to get out of all this? You should be made vice president, at least. Or something."

"Not quite. But I will get something that I believe I'm really going to like."

"Such as . . . ?"

"Personnel manager."

"No!"

Chapter 25

"Yes." "But what about Rollins?" "Rollins is leaving this week. They couldn't prove his connection with the Kahl gang, but they fired him anyway on general principles."

At that moment Alf Mason hurried up to them. Stopping them, he threw out both arms in a gesture of defeat. "I tried to quit," he stated dismally. "For months, I tried to quit . . . but I never could quite make the grade. And now that you got me a real job, a Chief Inspector's job, I want to stay. So what happens?"

"I'll bite," Kitty said. "What happens?"

"They fire me!"

Kitty and Pete started to laugh but thought better of it, as the look in the old man's eyes. Unconsciously, Pete's arms slid lightly across Kitty's shoulders. "Why did they fire you?" he asked.

"I dropped a screwdriver down in the wing. It rolled down under the inboard gas tank."

"That isn't so bad," Kitty put in. "Why didn't they get it out?"

"They did get it out, but they had to take off the whole lower panel, drill out the rivets and all, before they could get it out."

This was serious, Pete thought. As much as he'd like to help the old man, he knew that he could do nothing. Carelessness which delayed production was inexcusable.

"Listen," he said, smiling at Kitty. "It's time you retired, anyway. Mose. There's a little garden, behind a pretty white cottage in a place I know. It's opposite a high cliff across the river. The garden needs someone like you to look after it. There are flowers in the front yard that will need attention."

"You can work, mornings in the asylum, and afterwards, you can take care of our gardens." He looked at Kitty and what he saw in her eyes gave him plenty of confidence to go on. "Lots of husbands and wives work in Aircraft plants. We intend to join them." Gently, he squeezed Kitty's shoulder. "What do you say, Kitty?"

"The job is yours, Mose," Kitty said.

Ask Housewives For Kitchen Fats

Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—The State defense council today asked Pennsylvania housewives to contribute 1,500,000 pounds of used kitchen fats to collection campaigns this month and estimated that quantity of salvage to be worth $60,000 in cash and 3,000,000 brown ration points.

Colley S. Baker, secretary of the council's salvage committee, said the goal averaged three-fifths of a pound for every occupied dwelling in the state and added:

"Meat dealers will pay housewives four cents a pound for their fats and, in addition, the OPA has authorized them to give two brown ration points—good for meat, butter, cheese and lard among other foods, for each pound of fats turned in."

October collections amounted to 479,911 pounds, only one-third of the monthly quota.

The Plot Against Santa

Chapter 5

SANTA MAKES THREE MAGIC GIFTS

Santa Land was a very sad place. The goblins and fairies went about with long faces, and the elves—who are very timid folk, you know—spent whole days weeping into their silk handkerchiefs.

"What's to become of us?" they asked one another. "Unless Santa gets back his sled and reindeer there'll be no Christmas. There'll be no need to make toys anymore and what in the world will we do with all the toys we've already made?"

"What I want to know," said Timothy Dwarf who had just arrived in Santa Land, "is why Santa can't get some new reindeer and a new sled. There's time enough before Christmas."

"We tried that," replied the other folk. "These eight reindeer are the only ones in all the world that can fly through the air. They can take Santa to every home on the earth on Christmas eve and have him back here for coffee and doughnuts on Christmas morning. Without them it would take a hundred years for Santa to take toys to every boy and girl who is waiting for them."

At that moment a blue and silver winged fairy poked her head around the door and said, "Santa wants to talk to Patrick Tweedleknies."

Patrick got up from his bench and went out of the shop. All the other workers ran to the window and watched the old dwarf as he hobbled over to Santa's little cottage.

When Patrick knocked on Santa's door Mrs. Claus let him in and took him into the small private workroom where Santa was sitting in his rocker before the fire. With him were Sandra the Queen Fairy and Dewey, the whistle making brownie.

"Come in, Patrick," said Santa. "Mrs. Claus is about to serve us hot chocolate after which I have some things to show you."

"Humph!" said Patrick grumpily. "I can't say you seem very worried. What's to become of us if there's to be no more Christmas?"

"I declare, Patrick Tweedleknies," replied Mrs. Claus as she poured the dwarf a big cup of hot chocolate and dropped in a round blob of whipped cream. "You get grumpier every day. Now don't you worry—Santa's going to get his reindeer back some way or another."

"That is what I hope," agreed Santa, putting down his cup which he had emptied in two swallows.

"Now, I set up all last night making three special gifts which I want you folk to give away for me."

"Let's see the gifts," said Patrick, showing some interest, for he knew that no one could make toys the way Santa could.

"Who shall we give them to?" asked Sandra.

"Why are they special?" asked Dewey.

"Not so many questions," laughed Santa. "Here are the toys," and he held them out on his outstretched hand for all to see.

There were three very small objects. One was a snow white horse carved out of ivory. It was only three inches long but was perfectly shaped with long flowing mane and muscles that seemed to bulge and ripple under the ivory skin.

The second object was a tiny gold key.

The third object was a small sword—no longer than your hand. The handle was exquisitely carved with the figures of heroes. The steel blade was sharp and true.

"Well," gasped Patrick, letting out a whistle of admiration. "I must say they are as fine toys as I have ever seen."

"What shall we do with them?" asked Dewey.

Santa gave the ivory horse to Patrick Tweedleknies. "You, Patrick," he said, "must give this to the strongest boy you can find."

Then Santa gave the gold key to Sandra the Queen Fairy. "You, Sandra, must give this to the kindest boy you can find."

And then Santa gave the tiny sword to Dewey. "You, Dewey, must give this to the bravest boy you can find."

"When each of you have given away your gift, perhaps somehow we will get back our precious reindeer in time for Christmas at Aradoone."

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Lucinda Fisher, who departed this life one year ago, Dec. 8, 1942.

Just one year ago today, Our dear mother passed away. She was called to her home above. Regardless of our love.

How she called us to her bedside. Ah, those memories still abide; As she knew her time was near. But for the journey she had no fear.

Sleep on dear mother, take thy rest. Your place in heaven is far the best. Where cares and woes are all unknown. Some day we'll meet you in that happy home.

By her daughter and sons, Mrs. Ernest Raffensperger of Hemlock Inn; Melvin, Roy, Ellis and Maurice Fisher of Harrisburg.

FINAL ASSEMBLY

By E. H. LEFTWICH

Chapter 24

Pete lost no time in seeing Kitty. "I've found out things," he said with a grin. "But not everything, so start talking."

So she told him all about it. "My boss in Washington, who is assistant to the chief of the FBI, called me into his office. I thought that he was going to give me a routine letter, but this time he was far more serious than ever before."

"He explained the set-up at the Melvin plant. Due to the importance of the 'Melvin Menace,' he figured there might be sabotage. But all of his men were busy on special assignments. He asked me if I would be willing to go to the plant as a worker, keep my eyes open and work with the company detective."

"And that," Pete interrupted, "was why you were so thick with Brackmyde?"

"Yes. You see my work in the plant wasn't official with respect to the FBI, yet my boss felt I would be useful, since no one would suspect a dumb worker."

"Then, your sloppy workmanship was just an act?"

"Yes. I assure you that I can do much better than the work you saw me doing while you were making your observations."

Pete laughed and looked at his watch. "Time for the first whistle," he said. "We'd better be going in."

Arm in arm they joined the straggling line of workers on their way to the plant entrance. To their right, the deep red sun hung low in the afternoon sky, over the test-flight ramp.

"You know," Pete said, "you have been first-aid's best customer. Was that also an act?"

"Not exactly. I was so busy looking out for trouble that I wasn't as careful as I would have been, ordinarily."

"I see. Then, how are you going to like your new position as Supervisor of Blueprint Interpretation department?"

"I'll like it so well," Kitty said, squeezing his arm, "that I've already turned in my resignation to my boss in Washington. I'm going to stay here and put that job over in a big way."

"That's great, Kitty. I thought you'd like that job."

"What do you mean, you thought I'd like it? Did you have anything to do with...?"

"Well, now," Pete broke in. "You had me on the spot. You can imagine what kind of a report I'd have had to turn in on you. I had to do something. I invented that job for you."

Kitty squeezed his arm again, harder. "You're sweet," she said. At the time-clock, they parted. "See you at lunch-time," Pete said.

"And now, Mister Neil," Kitty asked, as they made their way back toward the line after lunch, "just what are you going to get out of all this? You should be made vice president, at least. Or something."

"Not quite. But I will get something that I believe I'm really going to like."

"Such as...?"

"Personnel manager."

"No!"

The Plot Against Santa

Chapter 5

SANTA MAKES THREE

MAGIC GIFTS

Santa Land was a very sad place. The goblins and fairies went about with long faces, and the elves—who are very timid folk, you know—spent whole days weeping into their silk handkerchiefs.

"What's to become of us?" they asked one another. "Unless Santa gets back his sled and reindeer there'll be no Christmas. There'll be no need to make toys anymore and what in the world will we do with all the toys we've already made?"

"What I want to know," said Timothy Dwarf who had just arrived in Santa Land, "is why Santa can't get some new reindeer and a new sled. There's time enough before Christmas."

"We tried that," replied the other folk. "These eight reindeer are the only ones in all the world that can fly through the air. They can take Santa to every home on the earth on Christmas eve and have him back here for coffee and doughnuts on Christmas morning. Without them it would take a hundred years for Santa to take toys to every boy and girl who is waiting for them."

At that moment a blue and silver winged fairy poked her head around the door and said, "Santa wants to talk to Patrick Tweedeknees."

Patrick got up from his bench and went out of the shop. All the other workers ran to the window and watched the old dwarf as he hobbled over to Santa's little cottage.

When Patrick knocked on Santa's door Mrs. Claus let him in and took him into the small private workshop where Santa was sitting in his rocker before the fire. With him were Sandra the Queen Fairy and Dewey, the whistle making brownie.

"Come in, Patrick," said Santa. "Mrs. Claus is about to serve us hot chocolate after which I have some things to show you."

"Humph!" said Patrick grumpily. "I can't say you seem very worried. What's to become of us if there's to be no more Christmas?"

"I declare, Patrick Tweedeknees," replied

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—While listener response was classified "fairly favorable," network broadcasting of basketball as far as NBC is concerned apparently will not be continued after last Saturday's transmission, an experiment, of the game between Princeton and Dartmouth. Bill Stern was at the microphone.

A rather extensive list of stations carried the game, but it is felt basketball on a network did not have the same appeal to the ear as football with the crowd excitement that always filters through the microphone. Despite the speed of play Stern had no difficulty in keeping up with the action. However, the listener interest just did not seem to be there from a network standpoint, he reported.

EXPECT MOVES TO IMPLEMENT TEHERAN PLAN

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)
The first Allied move, now that the Tehran conference is out of the way, naturally will be to implement the announced agreement for concerted action against Hitler from east, west and south.

What is the most expeditious way of administering the coup de grace to the Nazi Fuehrer? We can't get at him the way the Hitlerites reportedly have done in the case of Count Ciano, Mussolini's turncoat son-in-law, who is said to have been shot in the back by a firing squad.

They tell us there's more than one way to skin a cat. That may be true. But there always is the best and quickest way of doing the job. The same thing is true of the task of beating Hitler.

There probably are numerous ways he could be defeated—if we are prepared to drag the war out. For one thing, it likely could be done by air, provided the Red land forces could keep the German armies engaged in fierce and bloody combat over the long period necessary to destroy the resources of the Reich by bombing. Of course, you could gamble that the bombardment would break German civilian morale—and admittedly it might—but it nevertheless would be a gamble and should be supplemented by other more certain measures.

Japs Are Next
The experts generally are agreed that there's only one quick way to do the job with certainty, and that's the opening of a second land front in France, across the English channel. Since Stalin is essentially a man of tremendous action, and since he apparently is satisfied with the outcome of the Tehran parley, we may take it for granted that his persistent demand for the early opening of a second front in France has been satisfied.

Therefore, one would expect to see the Western Allies achieve this with the greatest possible speed. And speed is essential if we are to save lives and conserve our national resources which now are being poured into the bottomless hopper of war. It's essential for another thing, too, and that is to get this European upheaval over so that we can tackle the Japs. Every moment of respite we allow the little men of Nippon gives them just so much more chance to dig-in and get established in conquered territories. Every moment of delay increases the risk of China being knocked out—a very real threat, despite their amazing bravery in the face of adversity which would have beaten many nations long ago.

Invasion of France
As remarked in previous columns, the signs are that the western Allies now are going full speed ahead in preparing for an early invasion of the continent. For a quick kick it must be achieved before spring because the spring rains and mud are almost sure to bog the Red Armies down for a considerable period, and all-out Russian pressure is needed on the eastern front when the invasion of the west is undertaken.

The time is right for action. Hitler's once supreme military machine is deteriorating fast. The Allies now have a great numerical superiority in troops. Indeed, while exact figures aren't available, it's certain that the Soviet alone can muster many more fighting men than the Reich. And both Russia and the Anglo-American Allies have a great superiority in the air—a tremendous asset, especially in the case of amphibious invasion.

So the main target we're shooting at is invasion of western France. Meantime the bombing of western Europe and Germany will go on with increasing intensity. That's an essential preliminary to invasion, and of course it might crack that weary German morale.

Oakland, Calif. (AP)—W. N. Orme, manager of a general manufacturing company, reported a $1,000 theft, but Oakland police had only this to bite into—stolen were 300 sets of false teeth.

December 15th, 1943 Federal Income Tax Returns.

Q. Do corporations have to make a return at this time?
Ans. No.

Q. Who does have to make a return under the present law?

Ans. Broadly speaking there are three classes of taxpayers who must make returns on or before Dec. 15th, 1943; they are:

1. Those farmers who can reasonably well estimate their 1943 income.
2. Those individuals who have not heretofore made a 1943 estimate and whose earnings are high enough to make returns necessary.
3. Those whose estimated earnings exceed former 1943 estimates by 20% (farmers 33 1/3%). This is made necessary by that part of the present law which provides for a penalty for under estimates.

To those who feel that they need advice and aid in preparing their returns this is to advise that it will be located on the Second Floor of the First National Bank Building in Gettysburg, for that purpose, from December 8th to December 15th, 1943.

RADIO PROGRAMS

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—While listener response was classified "fairly favorable," network broadcasting of basketball as far as NBC is concerned apparently will not be continued after last Saturday's transmission, an experiment, of the game between Princeton and Dartmouth. Bill Stern was at the microphone.

A rather extensive list of stations carried the game, but it is felt basketball on a network did not have the same appeal to the ear as football with the crowd excitement that always filters through the microphone. Despite the speed of play Stern had no difficulty in keeping up with the action. However, the listener interest just did not seem to be there from a network standpoint, he reported.

December 15th. 1943 Federal Income Tax Returns.

Q. Do corporations have to make a return at this time?
Ans. No.

Q. Who does have to make a return under the present law?
Ans. Broadly speaking there are three classes of taxpayers who must make returns on or before Dec. 15th, 1943; they are:

1. Those farmers who can reasonably well estimate their 1943 income.
2. Those individuals who have not heretofore made a 1943 estimate and whose earnings are high enough to make returns necessary.
3. Those whose estimated earnings exceed former 1943 estimates by 20% (farmers 33 1/3%). This is made necessary by that part of the present law which provides for a penalty for under estimates.

To those who feel that they need advice and aid in preparing their returns this is to advise that it will be located on the Second Floor of the First National Bank Building in Gettysburg, for that purpose, from December 8th to December 15th, 1943.

Send THE GETTYSBURG TIMES to someone you loved one overseas as a Christmas Gift

Leaves From A War Scribes'
Book Of Notes

By HAL BOYLE
Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Dec. 5 (Delayed) (AP)—In recent days, Private Art Brandel, 30, of Long Island city, N. Y., has distributed more than 1,000 Christmas packages sent to service men by friends and relatives.

His role as middle-man for Santa Claus has led Brandel to certain conclusions. Here they are:

"Single men get more presents than married soldiers because the girls back home are interested in post-war reconstruction.

"Everybody seems to get fruit cakes, cigarettes and candy, most of the gifts are sent by women, and they show very little originality. This is bad, because some boys feel hurt if they get the same present everybody else gets. Most soldiers want to get a special present that is unique—that is different than what their buddies got.

Many Sewing Kits
"I don't know anybody that didn't get a sewing kit—usually three or four. If you ask these guys what kind of a Christmas box they got they say 'so-so.'"

"A lot of books, particularly mystery books, socks, handkerchiefs and underwear are also coming through. There'll be some unusual gifts. One lieutenant got some fish hooks and flies. Lt. Sidney Kremer of Philadelphia got some canned chicken, anchovies and hors d'oeuvres. I got some canned smoked turkey and a piece of salami.

"Correspondent Milton Bracker of the New York Times got five fruit cakes. That is a record so far.

"Most boys seem to be getting five or six Christmas packages on the average. One officer got 15 and they're still coming in.

Poker Chips

"You can tell by the type of package whether the boys' have been away from home much before the war. If the folks are used to him being gone they usually send him a few sensible, useful and practical presents, but if he is away for the first time they send him terrific collections of stuff, including chewing gum, pen and pencil sets—just as if he was graduating from high school.

"I think one of the WACs got the funniest present of all. Somebody sent her a set of poker chips.

Second Honeymoon

The Army gave a second honeymoon—within limits—to Janet Hall, a WAC private, and her sergeant husband, Everett C. Hall, whose service paths converged overseas after they had been apart more than a year.

Janet has an unusual history. She was born 22 years ago in the Belgian Congo, where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Johnson, had been missionaries for years. She was the only white child in the settlement and the natives called her "Eloa Malion," which means "Princess Mary" in the Lomkundu dialect.

The first 15 years of her life she spent in the Congo playing and swimming with native companions who also were her classmates in the mission school for converted Christians. Then she went to Pembroke, N. Y., to live with an aunt. In Pembroke, she met and married Hall, a 24-year-old machinist.

Both Enter Service

When he entered the Army, Janet enlisted in the WACs. He came to North Africa and then moved to Sicily with the Seventh Army. Janet, too, was sent to North Africa, and one of the first things she did was to drop hubby a line giving her new APO number.

Figuring she would be in Algiers, he obtained a seven-day leave. One day, the phone rang in the section of the 12th Airforce Service command where Janet worked as a file clerk.

"Hello," she said, and a masculine voice on the other end of the wire answered "hello, this is Everett."

"Everett who," said Janet.

"The Everett who happens to be your husband," the voice said.

Private Hall forgot all her military training in a scream of happiness. Learning where her husband was, she hung up the receiver and dashed out, sans hat, sans pass, sans permission—to meet him half an hour later. After a happy reunion, it suddenly dawned on her that she had violated half the articles of war in leaving her job.

24-Hour Pass

She went back immediately—husband or no husband, she was in the Army—but her colonel boss gave her the afternoon off and she got a 24-hour pass from the "Wackery," a name the soldiers have given the WAC dormitory.

The next evening, Sergeant Hall ate Thanksgiving dinner with Janet and 130 WACs in the WAC mess hall. During the rest of her husband's stay, Janet worked every day, but each evening—she was permitted to remain out until 11 p. m. Normally the girls can stay out that late only twice a week.

Now their honeymoon is over. Both are back on their jobs. They have been married two-and-a-half years.

"Actually, though, it's only been 17 months," said Janet. "You see, we haven't seen each other for 13 months."

Here And There
News Collected At Random

Congressman George A. Dondero, of Royal Oak, Michigan, is a great admirer of Lincoln and Gettysburg. He encourages school children to read Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and visit the Gettysburg National cemetery dedicated by the martyred Lincoln.

On November 19, the 80th anniversary of that famous Address, Congressman Dondero spoke in the House of Representatives in commemoration of Lincoln and Gettysburg.

Before going to Congress Mr. Dondero was president of the Royal Oak school board and originated the first visit of high school students to Gettysburg from that area. He organized the group and each successive year, for many years, Royal Oak high school seniors came to Gettysburg.

Mr. Dondero became Mayor of Royal Oak and was active in civic affairs in his community. He is serving his sixth term in Congress.

How much he admires Lincoln and Gettysburg is well expressed in his address in the House last month as follows:

"Four score years ago today Abraham Lincoln, sixteenth President of the United States, stood on a crude platform in the midst of new-made graves at Gettysburg and delivered an address which has not perished from the earth."

"In July 1863 it took 175,000 men in Blue and Grey at a cost of 10,000 lives in three days of battle, to elevate the little Pennsylvania town of Gettysburg to historic fame. Four months later it took one man two minutes in 270 words to make it a spot of double historic interest, which the world will always note and long remember. Thereafter it had a second claim to immortality."

"Eighty years have passed since Lincoln stood in the crisp air of a November afternoon in response to an invitation to 'make a few appropriate remarks' at the dedication of a national cemetery at Gettysburg. It is quite evident that he was not invited because of his ability as an orator, nor for what he might say, but only because he was the President of the United States. He was to be there as a figurehead to draw a crowd. The committee in charge came very near not inviting the President, feeling that he might make a political speech or otherwise mar the dignity of the occasion."

"Lincoln did not use that modern, much-abused word 'democracy,' but he did mention 'the Government of the people'; declared that it should not perish from the earth and that it should have a new birth of freedom. He was not sure that it would not perish, but he did ask the people to help resolve that."

WOMAN'S CLUB
CLOSES ROLLS;
VOTE DONATIONS

Members of the Woman's club of Gettysburg gathered for their last regular meeting of the year, Wednesday afternoon, at the YWCA building with the president, Mrs. J. Walter Coleman, presiding and about 50 members in attendance.

The clubwomen voted a $10 donation to the rural school library fund and a contribution to the county Tuberculosis society.

With the presentation of Mrs. LeRoy H. Winebrenner and Mrs. William Tyson, Wednesday, as new members the club voted a change in the by-laws that closes the membership rolls for the remainder of the current club year. One hundred thirty women belong to the club.

Limited space in the regular meeting quarters was given as the reason for the decision to receive no more members for the present.

Special Music

Mrs. Coleman thanked the members of the club who helped with the recent benefit card party and announced that more than $75 had been cleared at the event. It will be used for war-connected purposes. The president urged members to study the Equal Rights amendment in preparation for club action at the next meeting.

Mrs. Frank Kramer introduced Mr. Richard Shade, supervisor of music in the Gettysburg public schools who presented three piano selections. The group sang Christmas carols and then were entertained by Mrs. G. Ed. Schwartz, York, who gave a reading titled "The Lost Word."

A social hour followed the meeting. The hostesses were Mrs. H. W. A. Hanson, Mrs. James P. Cairns, Mrs. C. E. Billheimer, Mrs. Anna Cairns, Mrs. Harry P. Baughman and Mrs. Russell A. Campbell.

The next meeting will be held January 12.

MOTORIST CHARGED

Paul Gutshall, Newville R. 1, has been charged with reckless driving by a member of the local state police before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder. A ten-day notice has been sent.

CHRISTMAS
GREETINGS

The annual Christmas Greetings' edition of The Gettysburg Times will be published as usual this year. It will include special Christmas messages from those in service to their parents and the Xmas greetings from parents and other close relations of those in service.

Those desiring to have their Xmas greeting to a son, brother, father, daughter or other close relation, included in the edition are requested to send it to The Gettysburg Times not later than December 15th.

It is requested that Xmas greetings be limited to not more than 25 words.

SUPERVISORS
AT 26TH MEET

Township supervisors are not elected to work on the roads of their district despite the confusion as to their duties which caused some counties to call them "road supervisors" on the ballots at the recent election. H. A. Thompson, state secretary of the Supervisors association, told approximately 100 supervisors and auditors from Adams county at their 26th annual convention this morning at the court house.

"There is no such thing as a road supervisor," he declared. "The supervisors are the executive board of the township, just as the council is the executive body here in Gettysburg. The supervisors must elect road masters before anyone can spend any money for road construction or do anything about the roads. The road masters have that duty and they are named and controlled by the supervisors."

Nearly 350 laws relating to townships were before the legislature at the last session, Thompson told the supervisors and auditors. He spoke on a number of the new laws this morning and planned to take up additional discussion on the laws during this afternoon's session.

Tax on Convention Pay

Much of this morning's talk was confined to discussing the duties of the supervisors and the secretary of the board in collecting and paying the withholding and victory taxes. Thompson pointed out that supervisors who are also road masters have their deductions made monthly, while supervisors who are not road men are on per diem basis. "For example, you men must pay four cents victory and withholding tax on your attendance at the convention today," the state secretary said. Tax collectors are considered employees of the township for the purpose of the tax, and must make monthly settlements on taxes collected with the withholding taxes withheld each month from the collector's commission.

Auditors must advertise in a newspaper with a general circulation in their townships as well as post their annual auditors' report in five prominent places in the township, according to a law passed this year, he stated. He urged the supervisors to back the constitutional amendment, which will come before the voters in 1945 if passed by the legislature again next year, providing that all money from highway taxes be used for highway purposes.

Discuss New Laws

A new law provides that when the state highway turns a stretch of highway back to the township supervisors after relocating a road, the state highway must repair the road and place it in usable condition before turning it back, Thompson said.

An amendment of the general road law allows dead-end roads to be vacated or opened whether or not the road ends at a place of public resort, Thompson added. As a result supervisors can petition the court to close portions of a road, if those sections are not used. (Please Turn to Page 2)

5 ARRESTED BY STATE POLICE

A robbery that occurred several days ago at the trailer home of John Walter, near Hanover, was believed solved with the arrest of five persons late Tuesday night. All five, three men and two women, who were in default of bail, were committed to jail.

Pvt. Leslie Jackson of the criminal investigation division of the state police, York and Patrolman Calvin D. Musselman of the Hanover police department, brought charges of violating the State Firearms act against two brothers, Richard Gladfelter, 20, and Bruce Gladfelter, 23, who gave their address as Hanover R. D. 3 and Cross Keys. The charges were filed before Justice of the Peace John W. Dubs, of Penn township. When picked up, the two were said to have had a sawed-off shotgun, hacksaws, files and other equipment in their car.

Richard Gladfelter was also charged with a serious offense along with Clair Trish, 33, 417 Broadway, Hanover, and Florence A. Stambaugh, 20, and Marie Cool, 24, both of whom were listed as living near Cross Keys. Private Jackson laid complaints against the latter four before John H. Bashore, justice of the peace, Gettysburg. The Gladfelter brothers were committed to the York county jail, and Trish and the two women were lodged in the Adams county jail Wednesday.

Trish was released today under bail.

Yanks Smash
Forward Into
Rome Valley

By RICHARD McMURRAY
Associated Press War Editor

The American Fifth Army captured strategic Mt. Croce, drove the Germans from all of Mt. Camino except a single village and was reported smashing down the western slopes of the high barrier today into the valley leading to Rome.

The British Eighth Army was reported by Radio France of Algiers to have clawed its way to within eight miles of the Adriatic port of Pescara, on the other side of Italy. The official communique said the men of Montgomery improved their positions and were locked in heavy battle near Orsogna, 10 miles inland from the Adriatic.

Aerial Action

Bad weather restricted air operations throughout Italy. Allied air forces, however, bombed Orta and Civitavecchia in the Rome area and the small port of San Stefano on the Italian Riviera 10 miles from France. Two airdromes near Athens and the Yugoslav port of Split were bombed. Seven Allied planes were lost; they destroyed four German craft.

In the northeast, American troops attacked the captured high ground west of Venafro, despite fierce resistance supported by heavy German artillery fire, and still farther north wiped out lines of Nazi pillboxes west of Filignano, in the westward push across the mountain backbone flanking Cassino.

XMAS TREE FOR CADETS

Gettysburg college will heed the appeal to conserve electricity by not using electric lights for exterior Christmas decorations on the campus, with one exception... a Christmas tree for the Air Corps cadets.

The college will not string colored lights throughout the campus this year as has been the custom for many years. That custom will be abandoned "until victory."

However, college authorities, after careful consideration, will decorate one tree on the campus this year for the Air Corps cadets. It will be the only exception and is done out of consideration for the young men who are training to fly Uncle Sam's planes in the war zones.

"Practically all the cadets will be on the campus during the holidays. They will be away from home and families and friends. They will not be privileged to enjoy the holiday with their own people, hence our decision to give them at least a Christmas tree," Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college, said.

Decision of college authorities to have an outdoor Christmas tree for the cadets met with general approval throughout the community.

Air Corps Awards
For Civilian Staff

A special Air Corps award for civilians—a blue bar bearing the Air Corps insignia—has been presented to the three civilians who form the clerical and secretarial staff at the headquarters of the 55th College Training Detachment (Aircrew) at Gettysburg college.

Miss Betty Jane Deatrick, Miss Esther Tipton and Mrs. John P. Rhoads received the awards "for six consecutive months of satisfactory service." The presentations were made Wednesday afternoon in Detachment headquarters in Glatfelter hall by Captain John R. Coshey, commandant of the Detachment.

The brief ceremony was witnessed by other members of the permanent staff of the Detachment.

Presbyterian S.S.
Leaders Convene

Plans for the presentation of the Christmas drama, "Why the Chimes Rang," on Sunday evening, December 19 in the Presbyterian church were advanced at a meeting of officers and teachers of the Sunday school, Wednesday evening at the parsonage on East High street. Mrs. Harold Pegg is chairman of the general committee in charge and is directing the production.

General Sunday school business also was transacted and preparations were completed for a joint meeting of church school leaders of the Gettysburg, Lower Marsh Creek and Great Conowingo Presbyterian churches to be held in the local Sunday school building next Tuesday evening. The Rev. C. Ralston Smith, pastor of the Pine Street Presbyterian church, Harrisburg, and a Christian Education executive of the Carlisle Presbytery, will be the speaker.

E. Donald Scott, general superintendent, presided at the meeting. Refreshments followed the business session.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's

Eighth Army fought through downpours to improve its positions in the Orsogna area, 10 miles inland from the Adriatic, where both sides used tanks in clashes throughout the day yesterday. Prisoners were captured from a new German line unit operating in the mountain areas.

Block Attacks

Montgomery's men forced a new crossing of the Moro river in this area and had advanced to within eight miles of Pescara, the Adriatic terminal of the trans-penninsula highway to Rome.

A Morocco radio broadcast said the Eighth Army had reached the suburbs of Ortona, about eight miles below Pescara.

Improved weather and subsiding floods, however, favored the fighting on the Fifth Army front where it was disclosed the village of Calabritto on the southern slopes of Mt. Camino had changed hands several times in recent days before finally falling into firm Allied possession.

In the Venafro area the Germans launched several sharp counterattacks, but the Americans prevented them from having conclusive results.

Triple Forays

American heavy bombers took the off-traveled route to Greece again yesterday, attacking enemy airfields at Eleusis and Tatol, west and north of Athens, respectively. Both Fortresses and Liberators engaged in the operations.

A smaller Allied bombing force also ranged far northward to attack harbor installations and shipping at San Stefano, 80 miles northwest of Rome.

The air command said that in both this and the raids on the Greek airfields the targets were well covered.

Medium bombers, in triple forays, hit the railway center at Orta, inland above Rome, Civitavecchia, port 45 miles northwest of the Italian capital and the railway town of Spoleto, 60 miles northeast of Rome.

Four enemy aircraft were destroyed during the day's operations and seven Allied planes were missing.

Nurses' Aides To Graduate Monday

Another Red Cross class of prospective Nurses' Aides will be graduated at special exercises to be conducted next Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the court house with Dr. Harvey D. Hoover, member of the faculty of the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary as the speaker.

Judge W. C. Sheely, chairman of the Adams County Council of Defense, will present Office of Civilian Defense certificates to the members of the class.

The group to be graduated includes Mrs. Elizabeth Kenworthy, the Misses Evelyn Hamme, Nancy Irie, Alice Wolf and Esther Kenyon. Mrs. Sydney Poppy was the instructor for the course.

The public is invited to attend the graduation ceremony.

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—While listener response was classified "fairly favorable," network broadcasting of basketball as far as NBC is concerned apparently will not be continued after last Saturday's transmission, an experiment, of the game between Princeton and Dartmouth. Bill Stern was at the microphone.

A rather extensive list of stations carried the game, but it is felt basketball on a network did not have the same appeal to the ear as football with the crowd excitement that always filters through the microphone. Despite the speed of play Stern had no difficulty in keeping up with the action. However, the listener interest just did not seem to be there from a network standpoint, he reported.

EXPECT MOVES TO IMPLEMENT TEHERAN PLAN

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
 (Associated Press War Analyst)
 The first Allied move, now that the Teheran conference is out of the way, naturally will be to implement the announced agreement for concerted action against Hitler from east, west and south.

What is the most expeditious way of administering the coup de grace to the Nazi Fuehrer? We can't get at him the way the Hitlerites reportedly have done in the case of Count Ciano, Mussolini's turncoat son-in-law, who is said to have been shot in the back by a firing squad.

They tell us there's more than one way to skin a cat. That may be true. But there always is the best and quickest way of doing the job. The same thing is true of the task of beating Hitler.

There probably are numerous ways he could be defeated—if we are prepared to drag the war out. For one thing, it likely could be done by air, provided the Red land forces could keep the German armies engaged in fierce and bloody combat over the long period necessary to destroy the resources of the Reich by bombing. Of course, you could gamble that the bombardment would break German civilian morale—and admittedly it might—but it nevertheless would be a gamble and should be supplemented by other more certain measures.

Japs Are Next
 The experts generally are agreed that there's only one quick way to do the job with certainty, and that's the opening of a second land front in France, across the English channel. Since Stalin is essentially a man of tremendous action, and since he apparently is satisfied with the outcome of the Teheran parley, we may take it for granted that his persistent demand for the early opening of a second front in France has been satisfied.

Therefore, one would expect to see the Western Allies achieve this with the greatest possible speed. And speed is essential if we are to save lives and conserve our national resources which now are being poured into the bottomless hopper of war.

It's essential for another thing, too, and that is to get this European upheaval over so that we can tackle the Japs. Every moment of respite we allow the little men of Nippon gives them just so much more chance to dig-in and get established in conquered territories. Every moment of delay increases the risk of China being knocked out—a very real threat, despite their amazing bravery in the face of adversity which would have beaten many nations long ago.

Invasion of France
 As remarked in previous columns, the signs are that the western Allies now are going full speed ahead in preparing for an early invasion of the continent. For a quick kick it must be achieved before spring because the spring rains and mud are almost sure to bog the Red Armies down for a considerable period, and all-out Russian pressure is needed on the eastern front when the invasion of the west is undertaken.

The time is right for action. Hitler's once supreme military machine is deteriorating fast. The Allies now have a great numerical superiority in troops. Indeed, while exact figures aren't available, it's certain that the Soviet alone can muster many more fighting men than can the Reich. And both Russia and the Anglo-American Allies have a great superiority in the air—a tremendous asset, especially in the case of amphibious invasion.

So the main target we're shooting at is invasion of western France. Meantime the bombing of western Europe and Germany will go on with increasing intensity. That's an essential preliminary to invasion, and of course it might crack that weary German morale.

Oakland, Calif. (AP)—W. N. Orme, manager of a general manufacturing company, reported a $1,000 theft, but Oakland police had only this to bite into—stolen were 300 sets of false teeth.

December 15th. 1943 Federal Income Tax Returns.

Q. Do corporations have to make a return at this time? Ans. No.

Q. Who does have to make a return under the present law? Ans. Broadly speaking there are three classes of taxpayers who must make returns on or before Dec. 15th, 1943; they are:

1. Those farmers who can reasonably well estimate their 1943 income.
2. Those individuals who have not heretofore made a 1943 estimate and whose earnings are high enough to make returns necessary.
3. Those whose estimated earnings exceed former 1943 estimates by 20% (farmers 33 1/3%). This is made necessary by that part of the present law which provides for a penalty for under estimates.

To those who feel that they need advice and aid in preparing their returns this is to advise that I will be located on the Second Floor of the First National Bank Building in Gettysburg, for that purpose, from December 8th to December 15th, 1943.
